

1128

Case No. 2,339.

CAMELLOS v. REVEREZ.

[1 Cranch, C. C. 62.]<sup>1</sup>

Circuit Court, District of Columbia.

Jan. Term, 1802.

DISCHARGE OF INSOLVENT—FRAUD.

Upon proof of fraud, the court will refuse to permit the debtor to take the insolvent oath under the law of Virginia.

THE COURT refused to permit the plaintiff to take the insolvent oath, under the law of Virginia, on proof of his fraud in running away from the Havannah, and secreting property to the amount of $6,000.

<sup>1</sup> [Reported by Hon. William Cranch, Chief Judge.]

This volume of American Law was transcribed for use on the Internet through a contribution from Google. 