Jurisdiction—In general.

Act Feb. 26, 1845, did not enlarge the jurisdiction of the federal courts as to questions of admiralty 851

The jurisdiction of the district court embraces all cases of a maritime nature, whether they be particularly of admiralty cognizance or not 1081

Such jurisdiction and the law regulating its exercise are to be sought for in the general maritime laws of nations, and are not confined to that of England or any other particular maritime nation 1081

Admiralty has jurisdiction to enforce a claim for materials and supplies by libel in personam, without regard to the existence of a lien on the vessel therefor 752 —Waters and places.

Admiralty has jurisdiction of a libel by mariners for wages against a vessel plying on navigable waters entirely within one state 456

	Page
Admiralty has jurisdiction of a claim for seaman's wages on a voyage between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh on a vessel of more than 10 tons' burden	1218
The term "navigable waters" (Act Feb. 26, 1745) does not mean "natural streams," and includes an artificial communication, such as the Welland Canal	851 —Persons and property.
A libel by British seamen against a British vessel for wages will be dismissed on the protest of the consul where it appears that the parties are about to pass into the British jurisdiction	539
Services rendered in raising a floating dry dock are not maritime, and admiralty has no jurisdiction of a suit therefor	281
Admiralty has no jurisdiction of a libel in rem by the owners of a bridge for damages sustained in a collision with a vessel	548
In the case of a collision in our ports between ships belonging to subjects of different foreign nations, our courts will not decline to take jurisdiction from motives of international comity	86
The district court in admiralty has jurisdiction in a case of salvage rendered by an American tug to a British vessel in Canadian waters	159
—Rights and controversies.
Admiralty has no jurisdiction to enforce the claim of a mortgagee of a vessel	155
A contract by the vessel to collect of the consignee advances and charges on the goods, and repay them to the shipper, is a maritime contract; and a suit in rem may be maintained thereon in admiralty	176
Admiralty has no jurisdiction of a suit by shipping masters to recover for services in	845

procuring a crew to navigate a vessel from one port to another in the same state
A libel in rem will lie for tolls imposed by a state statute in favor of corporations organized for the improvement of rivers and harbors	176
Admiralty has jurisdiction of a libel to recover damages in the nature of demurrage, although there is no stipulation for demurrage in the bill of lading	1264
The acceptance of notes as a liquidation of a claim for breach of a charter party, but not in satisfaction thereof, will not bar the admiralty jurisdiction where the notes are surrendered in court for cancellation	1208
Procedure.
The principle that where one creditor has two funds to resort to, while another has security on only one of such funds, the former will be compelled to resort to the other fund, will not be applied in admiralty at the instance of a mere mortgagee	155
Condemnation in a French court of admiralty of property carried into the port of an ally cannot be inquired into by the courts of this country	1210
ADVERSE POSSESSION.
See also, "Ejectment"; "Limitation of Actions"; "Real Property."
To acquire title by adverse possession, the possession must have been open, adverse, and continuous for 20 years under a claim of title	131
An adverse possession held by a tenant in common, to the exclusion of his cotenants, bars under the statute of limitations or by lapse of time	827

Affidavit.

See "Injunction."

AFFREIGHTMENT.

	Page
See, also, "Admiralty"; "Bills of Lading"; "Carriers"; "Charter Parties"; "Demurrage"; "Shipping."
A vessel which carries paper stock and petroleum in the same cargo is bound to use especial care in stowing them with reference to each other	126
The absence of a crew at night with the consent of the master, who remained on board alone while the ship was anchored in a harbor, renders the vessel unseaworthy; and she is liable for damages to cargo where she is driven ashore by a gale arising after the crew left	430
Where a vessel is captured and condemned at an intermediate port, no freight is due for the cargo restored and sold at such port	286
In the case of cargo delivered to a consignee, a portion to be reshipped, and the residue without qualification, held , that the lien for freight was displaced, though the charter party provided for a credit after "discharge" without impairment of lien	934

ALIENS.

See, also, "Consuls"; "Courts."
To entitle an alien to be naturalized, the five years' residence in the United States must be a continued residence	540

APPEAL AND ERROR.

See, also, "Bankruptcy"; "Collision."
No appeal lies from a decree of a federal district court unless the matter in dispute exceeds the sum or value of $50	1328
The superior court of the territory of Arkansas can only entertain a writ of error issued to, or an appeal from, a court of record	927
The appellant in Maryland is not bound to prosecute his appeal, and transmit the record,	838

until the term next after the approval of the appeal bond
The sureties in the appeal bond are liable to the extent of its penalty, and have no right to compel the application of proceeds made under the original decree	1089
Where a judgment is reversed, but it is ordered that the reversal be set aside, and an affirmance entered on the filing of a remittitur of a certain amount, which is accordingly done, held , that the sureties on the supersedeas bond were released	1115
An appeal in admiralty supersedes altogether the decree of the court below, and the case is to be tried in the appellate court as if no decree had been passed in the court below	482
Errors committed on the trial of an action at law against the party who obtains a verdict are merged in the verdict	702
Where there is a good and bad count in a declaration, and it appears that the evidence was applied solely to the bad count, the judgment will be reversed	894
Where libelant in admiralty recovered a small amount, and appealed, held , that the circuit court could dismiss the libel at libelant's costs, although claimant had not appealed	482
The court may allow the general issue to be pleaded after judgment upon demurrer has been awarded by the supreme court, and a mandate issued to enter the judgment and award a writ of inquiry	1224
ARBITRATION AND AWARD.
A revocation of the submission and notice thereof before the award is made and signed will invalidate the same	388

ATTORNEY AND CLIENT.

A person who is not an attorney at law cannot represent another before a register in bankruptcy unless he show a formal power of attorney. An attorney at law need not show his authority unless put to Proof 805

An attorney cannot acquire a lien for his compensation upon a judgment obtained by him, unless he has a special agreement as to the amount thereof. Civ. Code Or. § 1012 780

A mere debt due by the adverse party to the client of the attorney is not money in the hands of such party within Civ. Code Or. § 1012, subd. 3. upon which the attorney can acquire a lien 780

BAIL.

	Page
If no appearance bail be required, the court will not require special bail on setting aside the office judgment	1212
In actions on the case for uncertain damages, the court will mitigate the bail according to circumstances	332
Bail may follow their principal into an other jurisdiction, and take him out of the custody of another person who has subsequently become bail in the latter jurisdiction	1179

BAILMENT.

See, also, "Carriers"; "Warehousemen."
A bank requested another bank to loan money for it, and to make a proper charge therefor. The latter made the loan, but did not intend to charge therefor. Such intention was not communicated, but no charge was made in the running account between the banks. Held , that the bank was not a gratuitous bailee as to securities deposited to secure the loan	961
A person who hires a slave for a fixed term must pay the stipulated price, though he lose the service of the slave by his arrest and imprisonment for theft during the term	813
The recovery of a judgment for the hire of a slave to a period subsequent to the commencement of an action of trover to recover for her loss will bar the action of trover.	1059
A person who hires a slave, and carries her out of the state without the consent of the owner, whereby she is lost, is liable for her value	1059
An action against an attorney at law for negligence in failing to collect a promissory note must be brought in the name of the legal owner, though a receipt therefor was given to another	1104

BANKRUPTCY.

See, also, "Insolvency."

	Page
Operation and effect of bankruptcy laws, and of proceedings thereunder.
The appointment of receivers of a corporation in proceedings in a state court, and possession taken by them of the property of the corporation, will not prevent subsequent proceedings in bankruptcy against the corporation	139
The bankruptcy court may prohibit creditors of the bankrupt from taking out execution in a state court, and levying it on attached property, until the assignee shall have time to discharge the attachment liens	297
After 10 years from the entry of a judgment in favor of a receiver appointed in a creditors' suit, adjudging an assignment to be fraudulent and void, the bankruptcy court will not interfere at the suit of an assignee in bankruptcy, though an appeal is still pending	984
The bankruptcy court may issue an in junction to restrain creditors from further proceedings in the state court, and from interfering with property previously assigned by the bankrupt for the benefit of his creditors	985
A suit brought to collect, enforce, or satisfy any debt which would not be discharged by a discharge in bankruptcy is not within the meaning of section 21, Act 1867	1110
The bankrupt, pending proceedings against him, may be held under arrest in a civil action founded on a debt or claim from which his discharge in bankruptcy would not release him	1110
Where the amount due a creditor is in dispute in the state court, the bankruptcy court may allow the suit to proceed for the purpose of ascertaining the amount due, but execution will	5

be stayed if the debt is such as will be affected by the discharge
A suit on a provable debt, though the debt is not such a one as to be affected by a discharge, will be stayed by the bankruptcy court	765
A suit on a claim arising out of a contract of sale procured by false representations of the bankrupt, where prosecuted in an action sounding in damages, may be enjoined	765
The bankruptcy court will enjoin proceedings between a bankrupt and another in a state court which are collusive	303
The bankruptcy court has no authority to withdraw from the state court suits pending therein between the bankrupt and other parties, and compel their trial in the district court	297
The payment of a dividend on a judgment proved in bankruptcy will be suspended pending a writ of error therefrom in the state court	1219
An application for leave to sue the bankrupt in a state court after the lapse of a year from the adjudication, where no discharge has been had by the bankrupt, must be on notice to him	812
Where a foreclosure suit is commenced in the state court after petition in bankruptcy is filed, and proceeds to a decree before the assignee is appointed, the right of redemption is cut off	978
Jurisdiction of courts.
The district court of another district than that in which the bankruptcy proceedings are pending has jurisdiction, under the act of 1867, of a suit by the assignee against a resident therein to recover moneys paid defendant in violation of the bankrupt act. (Reversing 1213.)	1270
The district court has jurisdiction of a controversy as to the ownership of a fund in	120

the hands or under the control of the assignee, without regard to the residence of the parties in interest
Register—Powers, duties, and liabilities.
The books and papers in the register's office must be open to inspection at the local seat of justice	1286
Commencement of proceedings—Involuntary bankruptcy.
The levy of an execution on sufficient property to satisfy the debt does not estop the creditor from filing a petition in bankruptcy, but the levy will be held to have been waived thereby	1219
Attachment creditors who acquired their liens within four months are not to be reckoned in computing the proportion of creditors who must unite in the petition. (Reversing 867.)	866
In cases pending at the time of the amendment of June 22, 1874, petitioners must insert the allegations as to number and amount of petitioners by amendment to the petition	617, 622
Where the hearing on a petition is adjourned from time to time until after the passage of the act of June 22, 1874, the petition must be amended so as to make it conform thereto	890
The allegation as to the requisite number of creditors may be on information and belief	617, 622
The allegation and proof as to the requisite number of creditors joining in the petition cannot be waived by the debtor	617
The case may be referred to a register or commissioner to examine the proofs, and report whether a sufficient number of creditors have joined in the petition	495
Affidavits are admissible to show that a single creditor, filing a petition, had good reason to	617

believe that he did not constitute the requisite proportion of creditors
The petition will be dismissed on motion without requiring the debtor to file a schedule, where it appears that the requisite number of creditors have not joined	622
On such motion the court will hear affidavits in evidence offered by either party, and may order an examination of the persons verifying the petition	622
The affidavit to the petition may be amended	495
A creditor who has joined in the petition cannot object to an amendment thereof which is necessary to the prosecution of the same to final effect	495
Amendments to the petition in bankruptcy relate back to the filing of the original	1276
Petitioners must support their allegations by proof where the facts charged are formally denied by answer. (Act 1841.)	881
Where the acts of bankruptcy are denied, though insolvency is admitted, a decree will not be entered until an act of bankruptcy alleged is proven	139 —Intervention: Withdrawal: Dismissal.
Where the petitioning creditors fail to appear or proceed on the return day or adjourned day of a rule to show cause, any creditors to the required amount may intervene and proceed to an adjudication	1225
Such intervening creditors need not constitute one-fourth in number of the creditors, or represent one-third in value of the debts due by the debtors	1225
Attaching creditors may intervene and oppose the adjudication	867

	Page
A creditor who has in good faith joined in a petition cannot withdraw: otherwise, where he has been induced to join by misrepresentations	495
Where the only debt on which an adjudication may be entered is that of the petitioner, the bankrupt may have the petition dismissed on its payment, with costs	1222
A motion to dismiss and settle with the debtor cannot be made after adjudication	1265
—Acts of bankruptcy.
The suspension of payment of commercial paper for 14 days by a banker, merchant, or trader is prima facie evidence of fraud, and, where unexplained, will support a decree of bankruptcy	1206
The giving of a mortgage by a debtor on a large portion of his property, purporting to be security for a debt which in fact never existed, is an act of bankruptcy	105
The giving of mortgages in good faith to raise a contested attachment and pay overdue paper, to enable the debtor to continue business, held not an act of bankruptcy	357
In a rural community the mere nonpayment of a note at maturity is not sufficient evidence of insolvency	1147
An innkeeper who keeps a bar is a trader, and, when unable to pay his debts as they mature, is insolvent, although his property exceeds in value the amount of his debts	105
The inaction of a debtor in taking no steps to set aside a fictitious judgment entered before the passage of the bankrupt act, and to prevent execution being issued on it, is a procuring or suffering by him of his property to be taken on legal process	689

	Page
The legal liability for an act of bankruptcy cannot be discharged by a subsequent rescission of the transaction	105
Schedule.
A judgment in favor of the bankrupt should be set forth in the schedule	241
Growing crops unmaturred should be entered on the schedule of personal property	756
Meeting of creditors: Notice.
Where, on the return day, there is no proof of service of notices, the register should adjourn the meeting, and direct new notices to be served: but where, instead thereof, he certifies the facts to the court, a new warrant must issue	686
Assignee—Election, appointment, and removal.
Where copartners are adjudged bankrupts, the partnership creditors only can participate in the election of assignees	657
A proof of debt in the mode required by the statute establishes a prima facie case, though it is subject to objection and counter proof	524
A preferred creditor may surrender his preference at the first meeting, and vote for assignee, when the preference is of such a nature as to be effectually destroyed by such surrender	524
A creditor cannot change his vote after the meeting has adjourned, and thereby cause a failure to elect. If a mistake occurs he may make his objection to the judge	657
The assignees must be elected by a majority in number and value of the creditors who have proved their debts, and not by the greater part of those present and voting	657
The assignee, whether elected by the creditors or appointed by the register, has no power to act until the judge's approval is certified	657

	Page
Where the judge refuses to approve the appointment of the assignee elected by the creditors, he may order a new election, under Act 1867, § 13, cl. 4	657
An assignee is not in fault for failure to file a bond until the expiration of a time specified in an order to be made, requiring the giving of the bond	332
An assignee cannot be removed except upon an application made for that purpose, under section 18, Act 1867, general order No. 23, and form No. 41	649
The assignee will not be removed for unsuccessfully attacking mortgages given by the bankrupt, where it appears that such action was justifiable	130
A second assignee cannot be appointed until the first is removed	332
—Rights, duties, and liabilities.
The district judge has jurisdiction to investigate the condition of the assignee's accounts on petition of a creditor to ascertain what, if any, dividends are due and payable. (Act 1800.)	333
Manner of conducting such investigation and powers of the circuit court in relation thereto determined	333
An assignee will be held to the strictest account where he fails to attend a reference ordered to obtain the necessary information upon which to $$$ directions	649
A mistake in the de$$$ of the premises in a mortgage m$$$ be corrected as against the assignee to the same extent as would have been allowed against the mortgagor	754
Property of bankrupt—What constitutes.
Testator's son was adjudged a bankrupt before arriving at the age that an estate, given to	358

trustees for his benefit, was to be turned over to him with its accumulations. Held , that the assignee in bankruptcy was entitled to the property held by the trustees as against the bankrupt
Hides purchased by a tanner with the proceeds of drafts drawn on A., to manufacture into leather for A., as well as the manufactured article, are the property of A., and the title does not pass to the assignee in bankruptcy of the tanner	144
The lapsing of a life policy for nonpayment of premiums due after the commencement of bankrupt proceedings does not defeat the title of the assignee	556
Where, under contract for a speculation in real estate, the bankrupt was to have a certain per cent. interest and a division of the profits, held , that his interest in the assets growing out of the operation would pass to the assignee	1276
Assets withdrawn by a retiring partner are subject to the payment of the firm debts, where the remaining assets are insufficient, and may be reached for the benefit of the creditors, though invested in a homestead	542
Subsequent dealings of the creditors with the remaining partner, and sales and credits by them, do not estop them from enforcing their claim against the assets withdrawn	542
—Custody and control.
Where voluntary bankrupts delay to surrender their assets, an order will issue for their immediate surrender	1140
The bankrupt may be ordered to surrender or satisfactorily account for property which he has failed to turn over or account for, under penalty of being committed for contempt	235

	Page
The bankrupt may be committed where the court is satisfied that he has not fully disclosed the facts concerning his property	239
Partnership assets cannot be reached on an adjudication against one member alone	1256 1345
A solvent partner has no right to the possession of partnership assets in the hands of an assignee under adjudication against the remaining members of the firm	1153
On a bill filed by the assignee in bankruptcy to set aside a general assignment by the bankrupt, where the voluntary assignees were restrained from interfering with the property, held , that a receiver should be appointed by the bankruptcy court	986
Moneys received under a voluntary assignment adjudged to be valid, by a receiver appointed by the bankruptcy court, should be distributed by him, and not by the assignees	999
—Exemptions.
A policy of life insurance exempt from execution under the state law is to the same extent exempted under the bankrupt act	556
A paid-up life policy is not exempt to the assured, under Rev. St. Me. 1871, c. 49, § 65	556
In Maine the assignee has a lien on a life policy of the bankrupt for so much of two years' premiums as exceeds a certain sum, even though the assured borrowed the money to pay such premiums by pledging the policy therefore	556
The exemption in Pennsylvania of property worth $300 is additional to the exemption of necessary household and other articles, not exceeding in value $500, allowed by the bankrupt act	93

	Page
The homestead exemption provided by the new constitution of North Carolina is not applicable to prior debts	1314
A merchant in Kansas is not entitled to the special exemption allowed a “mechanic, miner, or other person,” of tools and instruments for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business	766
The partners are entitled to exemptions out of the joint assets where the individual assets are insufficient	15
The time to make a report of exempted property may be extended by the court	1310
An assignee cannot recover property excepted under section 14, Act 1867	699
—Wife’s claim.
An allowance will be made to the wife out of property descended to her before the decree of bankruptcy, but not reduced to possession	1195
—Liens.
Where, in the case of a statutory lien, the statutory requisites are not complied with until after the filing of a petition in bankruptcy, it is not valid as against the assignee	120
In the absence of an actual levy under an execution delivered to the sheriff, there is no lien on personal property protected by the bankrupt act (1841)	91
No lien attaches by the levy of an execution after defendant is adjudicated a bankrupt	51
A levy which has been relinquished before the filing of the petition creates no lien upon the property, as against the assignee	147
The lien acquired by a valid judgment and levy before the petition in bankruptcy is filed is not invalidated by the bankrupt act	719
Where, in a suit commenced by attachment, a judgment and an order of sale have been	1244

obtained before petition filed in bankruptcy, the judgment lien is not invalidated, though no execution has issued
Where the warrants for executions were signed the year before the petition in bankruptcy was filed, the executions are valid, though they were issued only a few days before	1311
A covenant in a mortgage to keep the mortgaged premises insured for the benefit of the mortgagee creates a specific equitable lien upon the insurance money, which is valid as against the assignee	351
A lien by execution on the individual property of a member of a bankrupt firm, under a judgment against the firm, will not yield to the equities of the separate creditors of such partner	354
A mechanic's lien given by law, though not perfected by the filing of the account when the petition in bankruptcy was filed, may thereafter be enforced as provided by law	124
A mortgagee will not generally be permitted to foreclose in a state court, but should invoke the summary power of the bankrupt court to sell the property, or, where the validity of the mortgage is denied, should J proceeds by bill in the district or circuit court	128
In the case of a creditor having several securities, held , that the court might so marshal the assets as to require such creditor to foreclose a mortgage before resorting to the general fund	540
In the case of obligations loaned by third persons to the bankrupt as security for debts, the creditor will not be required to first exhaust his remedy on them	540
Maritime liens will be accorded the preference which they would have in the admiralty.	798

— Sale.
The bankruptcy court has power to dispose of the incumbered property of the bankrupt in any manner deemed best for the interests of all concerned	272
Where the assignee has not obtained the highest price offered, as required by the order directing the sale, the sale will be set aside, and a resale ordered	104
Where it appears that property subject to valid liens will bring more at a private sale by the assignee, he may sell it, with leave to the lien creditors to apply for an order for the direction of the application of the proceeds	719
Proof of debts—What is provable.
A debt created by fraud is provable	5
A claim against a partner for false representations as to the credit of his firm, inducing a person to purchase their paper, is a claim for damages for a tort, and is not provable before judgment obtained thereon	739
Notes given for the excess or bonus over legal interest are not provable	1147
At common law a writ of error and supersedeas of execution leave the judgment intact, and it is provable	1219
The right of an indorsee of a note to prove the same in bankruptcy is controlled by the law of the state where the contract of transfer is made	1232
An indorsee before maturity of a negotiable note, without notice of existing equities in New York, can only prove against the estate of the maker the amount paid there for	1232
A debt barred by the New York statute of limitations (which affects the remedy only) may be proven	1250

Where all the members of one firm are partners in another, they cannot prove its debt against the latter	545
A draft drawn by a firm upon one who is a partner with its members in another firm cannot be proved against the joint estate on the bankruptcy of the latter firm	545
A protest and notice of dishonor are not necessary to entitle the holder of a note made by a partner, and indorsed by the bankrupt firm, maturing after their bankruptcy, to prove it against the joint as sets.	30
A preferred creditor may prove his debt after a surrender of the preference, unless a recovery has been had against him, under sections 35, 39, Act 1867	800
Only a moiety of the debt can be proved where the creditor received a preference with knowledge of his debtor's insolvency, and that a fraud on the act was intended, except in cases of constructive fraud, where he voluntarily restores the preference.	720 —Secured debts.
A mortgagee cannot apply for leave to foreclose his mortgage in another court without proving his debt in bankruptcy as a secured claim.	119
The petition in such case must be full and explicit, and signed and verified in the manner usual in other cases.	119
A creditor who has never accepted a deed of trust made to a third person for his benefit, and who disclaims all interest in it, may prove his claim as unsecured.	524
The proof of a debt which is in judgment waives the judgment; otherwise, where the judgment is proved.	1004

	Page
Where both the judgment and the consideration therefor are proved, held , that the security of the lien was not waived.	1004
—Set-off.
The claim against an insurance company for a loss under a policy cannot be set off against an unpaid subscription to its capital stock, where it is insolvent.	641
A stockholder in a bankrupt insurance company cannot set off, against a claim on his subscription, an adjusted liability on a policy purchased by him at one-third its value, with notice of the company's insolvency.	565
A set-off cannot be allowed in the case of a fiduciary relation between the bankrupt and a creditor.	641
—Procedure.
Proof may be made before a United States commissioner, although the bankrupt and creditor both reside in the same district.	1250
The debt is not considered as proven where the creditor retains possession of his deposition.	1250
Where the resident partners of a firm, having a partner residing abroad, prove a debt in bankruptcy, the firm becomes a party to the bankruptcy proceedings, and the resident partners will be restrained from prosecuting proceedings abroad to collect the claim.	686
Examination of bankrupt, etc.
The examination of the debtor before adjudication may be ordered, though he denies both the indebtedness and the act of bankruptcy.	234
An execution creditor who has proved his claim held entitled to an examination of the debtors in composition proceedings.	764

An order for an examination of the bankrupt's wife will be refused where applied for by the assignee after neglecting to make his report on the return day of the order to show cause why a discharge should not be granted.	1035
The assignee may inquire into all the facts and circumstances of the transaction of the purchase of a house by the bankrupt, where the title is taken in the wife's name.	730
Costs: Fees: Disbursements.
The register should examine and regulate the charges and expenses of assignees and counsel, whether any creditor objects to the account or not	560
Where the adjudication has been resisted, the petitioning creditor may recover the costs allowed by the act of 1853 to a party recovering in a suit in equity	1222
In such case a special allowance for counsel fees cannot be made.	1222
An allowance of $1,000 to counsel for petitioning creditors, where the assets of the bankrupt amounted to $15,000, and the counsel had not in any way recovered property fraudulently conveyed, held excessive.	583
As to the charges of the register, and how questions in regard thereto are to be raised	1286
Where the fund is not more than sufficient for the privileged creditors, the assignee cannot spend any money in litigation for the benefit of the general creditors.	560
The reasonable expenses of creditors in attachment proceedings held should be paid out of the fund, where such proceedings contributed to preserve the property	763
On examination before a register, each party must pay for the direct examination of his own	780

witnesses, and for such cross-examination as he may make of the witnesses of the adverse party Discharge—Proceedings to obtain.
A discharge will be refused where the bankrupt failed to apply therefor within one year of the adjudication, where a small amount of assets have come into the assignee's hands, but no debts have been proved	660
An unopposed petition for discharge is to be submitted upon the state of the case existing on the return day	913
Act June 22. 1874, did not repeal any part of Rev. St. § 5112, or any prior enactment embodied therein, except the provision requiring "fifty per centum of such assets"	1236
Where the assets were not equal to 50 per cent. of the proved claims contracted since January 1, 1869, held , that the discharge should be granted as to all provable debts contracted prior to that time	954
In a case of a judgment obtained upon another judgment, which latter was obtained upon a note indorsed by the bankrupt, held , that the date of the indorsement was the date when the debt was contracted, under Act June 22, 1874. § 9.	1236
Where a renewal note is given each year for seven years, the debt will be considered as contracted when the last note is given	756
Proceedings under a petition for a discharge are terminated by an adjournment without day, unless a new order is issued	957 —Proceedings in opposition.
A creditor who has not proved his debt may still oppose the discharge	1250
An appearance for a creditor, entered on an adjourned day of the hearing on the order to	900

show cause, after several previous adjournments, is not too late
The time to file objections to a discharge should be kept open by adjournments until full opportunity is given for the examination of the bankrupt and witnesses.	957
Opposition to the discharge must be in writing, and must disclose the name of the opposing creditor	1329
Creditors who have agreed that the bankrupt's property shall be transferred by the assignee to a certain person, to be distributed according to the terms of a previous general assignment for creditors, are estopped from setting up such assignment in bar of the discharge	760
—Acts barring.
The acts enumerated in Rev. St. § 5110. are not in the nature of offenses or forfeitures of the right to a discharge, but are rather in the nature of violations of conditions precedent	1007
The failure of a member of a bankrupt firm to file a schedule of his personal property is no ground of refusing a discharge to the other members	778
The omission from the schedule of the amount of money in the hands of a receiver appointed in a state court suit for an accounting between the bankrupt and his partner held no ground for refusing a discharge	1329
The procurement of the appointment of a receiver in a state court suit held not to amount to a fraudulent transfer of property	1329
Where the circumstances tend to show that the party did not intend to prefer the creditor, the question of actual intent must be left to the jury, though he was insolvent, and the necessary effect of the payment was to prefer	1007

Where the necessary effect of a transfer is to prefer a creditor, and there is no attempt to explain away the inference of an intent to prefer, though the same is denied, the presumption of such intent will be held conclusive as a matter of law	1007
A bankrupt trader after March. 1867, must have kept such books of account as will enable an ordinary bookkeeper to determine his true financial condition	756
A former partner of the bankrupt cannot object to the latter's discharge on the ground that he failed to keep a cash account except as to matters occurring after the dissolution of the partnership	558
A tinsmith, who also keeps a small stock of hardware, is a trader, and required to keep books of account.	558
A saloon keeper, who sells cigars and liquors at retail, is a merchant or trader, required to keep proper books of account.	1285
—Scope and effect.
A commission merchant is liable in a fiduciary capacity for the proceeds of goods sent to him for sale on commission.	1110
Prohibited or fraudulent transfers.
The limitation within which a preference may be set aside is four months in involuntary and two months in voluntary cases.	720
The assignee cannot recover money paid by the bankrupt to a bona fide creditor more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy	1212
A mortgage or sale of property which is excepted under section 14, Act 1867, is not in violation of the act.	699

Any act whereby the debtor gives his creditor a preference must be presumed to have been made with an intent to prefer	590
A payment made in the ordinary course of business is valid where the creditor had not reasonable cause to believe that the debtors were insolvent, and intended to prefer him	1000
A creditor who has knowledge of transactions by the debtor out of the ordinary course of trade is put upon inquiry as to his solvency	638
The knowledge by a creditor, to whom an accommodation note was indorsed by the debtor, that the latter could not pay his debts as they matured, is reasonable cause to believe him insolvent	1334
Reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent, with knowledge that the transaction is in fraud of the bankrupt law, is the same as if the creditor himself had taken part therein	147
A trader is insolvent (Act 1867, § 35) when he is unable to pay his debts as they mature in the ordinary course of his business	590
A sale by a manufacturer of chairs of a large quantity of black walnut logs, which he used in his business, is not one in the usual and ordinary course of business.	733
An agreement, between the parties to a suit against the bankrupt, to transfer certain claims to such action, so as to shelter them under the lien of an attachment issued therein, is in fraud of the bankrupt act	297
The exaction of a high rate of interest is not alone sufficient to render a judgment fraudulent and void as to creditors.	1147
The purchase of goods, in order that they might be taken on execution on judgments on notes given by the bankrupt, subjects the bankrupt to	147

the penalty of suffering his property to be seized on execution
A sale of $12,000 worth of groceries at a low price for cash, at a wholesale store, to a person not in the grocery business, the day after the seller suspended payment, held not fraudulent	981
A sale of stores for a fair price before insolvency, for the purpose of curtailing the bankrupt's business, held not fraudulent	1005
A general assignment by insolvent debtors for the benefit of creditors under the New York law is valid as against a sub sequent assignee in bankruptcy	998
The creditor who, without fraud, receives as security a policy of insurance, and pays premiums thereon, is entitled to a pro rata value of the policy	1334
A creditor who has taken an unlawful preference by execution and seizure of the bankrupt's property is liable for its value, and is only to be allowed, on the accounting, credit for the actual expenses of sale, not including the officer's fees.	985
A mortgage given when a debtor was in solvent, to a creditor who had reasonable cause to believe him to be so, is void if made within four months of the filing of the petition	589, 590
A mortgage given to secure a surety or indorser as to pre-existing debts, made within four months of the petition, for the express purpose of giving a preference where the mortgagee had reasonable cause to believe that the mortgagors were insolvent, is void	627, 632
A mortgage given within four months in exchange for a deed of the property given more than four months before the petition was filed is valid, as a change of securities.	589, 590

The delivery of possession, subsequent to the failure of the bailee, of property, whose title was in the person who made advances thereon, is not invalidated by the bankrupt act.	1168
The exchange of goods covered by a warehouse receipt in the warehouse of the vendor for others of equal or less value is not contrary to the bankrupt act	1168
The transfer of merchandise by ware housemen after their insolvency in place of goods previously abstracted by them is a fraudulent preference	1168
Where a creditor obtains in good faith as security a receipt for coal in the debtor's yard not separated from the common mass, he may take possession after discovering the insolvency of the debtor.	1282
The purchaser of goods previously paid for takes a good title, though they were delivered by the manufacturer after the purchaser knew of his insolvency	623
Where a conveyance is made in fraud of the bankrupt act, the fact that a part of the consideration was cash will not prevent the assignee from recovering the entire property	638
A mortgage to secure future advances is good for the amount of advances actually made thereon	754
Suits and proceedings in relation to the estate.
The two-years limitation provided by section 2 of the act of 1867 is inapplicable to a suit in equity by the assignee for moneys alleged to be due the bankrupt under an agreement with defendant	976
The limitation of two years applies only to controversies in which the circuit court would have jurisdiction	976

An action by the assignee in bankruptcy of a corporation against its stockholders to recover unpaid subscriptions to stock is barred in two years after the date of the assignment to him	856
The assignee is entitled to be made a party to suits pending in the state court by or against the bankrupt, and the bankrupt will be enjoined from interfering with them	297
A fund in the hands of the bankrupt court will be detained pending suits to determine adverse claims to its ownership.	120
In the case of a joint purchase in fraud of the bankrupt act, each purchaser is liable for the full value of the property, though they were interested in different proportions	751
Review.
An appeal may be taken to the circuit court from a decree of the district court in a suit to recover alleged property of the bankrupt, where the amount in dispute exceeds $500	627
Where the appeal provided for in section S. Act 1867, is not taken within 10 days after the decree is entered, the court acquires no jurisdiction	977
The provision of Act June 1, 1872, § 2, limiting the time to appeal from the district court to one year, does not apply to appeals under the bankrupt act	977
The circuit court has power to review the findings, where the evidence is before it upon which the bankrupt was adjudged guilty of contempt in failing to disclose his property	239
In such case the circuit court may direct the district court to allow the bankrupt to be re-examined before the register, and, on the return of an attachment, the court will examine the bankrupt	239

	Page
In the case of an appeal under section 8. Act 1867, from an order of the district court requiring the surrender of property belonging to the bankrupt, the order was affirmed on the merits.	296
Arrangement with, creditors: Composition.
A creditor who has not proved his claim cannot vote on a resolution of composition.	805
The creditors on whose motion an order to show cause has been issued need not prove their debts anew	805
A creditor who has an attachment issued within four months before the filing of the petition cannot vote at a composition meeting	805
As to the form of an order referring a proposition of composition to a register.	805
No second meeting of creditors, as such is necessary to confirm the resolution of composition	805
At the hearing for the ratification of the resolution, objections may be presented by the unsecured creditors	805
It is only necessary that the confirmatory signatures should be attached at or before the hearing for a ratification	805
A resolution of composition is avoided by the fact that a creditor was paid to give up a threatened opposition though a sufficient number of creditors had accepted it, and there was no evidence that their action was influenced thereby, or that the debtor procured the payment to be made	559
Where the holder of the bankrupt's note was induced to sign the resolution by an un defined expectation of advantage held out by the indorser, held , that the composition would be	559

set aside, though it did not appear that the bankrupt had anything to do with it
A signature of a creditor to a resolution of composition obtained upon the promise of another creditor to give him the promisor's trade in the future will invalidate the resolution	1313
A concealment of assets or a failure to name all the creditors does not necessarily render the proceedings void	805
A suit in the state court by a creditor in eluded in the composition will be enjoined pending completion of the composition	1141
Provable debts created by fraud are bound by a composition.	1141
In the absence of an adjudication or an assignment, a composition does not dissolve an attachment or affect the rights of attaching creditors who took no part in the proceedings	805, 1308

BANKS AND BANKING.

The cashier of a bank, as such, has no authority in another state to settle an account by taking private notes and drafts, and giving a receipt in full	356
The burden of showing authority to make such settlement is upon the party who alleges it	356
A stockholder who has pledged his stock to the bank as collateral security for the payment of his notes not yet due may vote at the election of directors	723
The relation of the bank and a customer as respects a specific sum of money, remitted by the bank at the request of the customer to another bank to pay a debt, is that of principal and agent, and not that of debt or and creditor	186
A national bank has power to lend money upon the note or other personal obligation of the	1331

borrower, secured by a pledge of stock of a corporation as collateral security
A loan by a national bank in excess of that allowed by Act June 3, 1864. § 29, is not void, though it will expose the bank to forfeiture of its franchise, and render the participating officers personally liable	1331
A national bank has no power to guaranty the obligation of a person on the deposit of collateral security	1036
A state cannot tax shares in a national bank by requiring the value of the property of the bank to be added to the value of the shares, otherwise ascertained, to obtain its assessable value	203
Where the assessing officers, in taxing national bank shares, have arrived at a correct result, the collection of the taxes will not be restrained because the method was erroneous	203
BILLS, NOTES, AND CHECKS:
Acceptance.
A promise to accept a nonexisting bill of exchange will amount to an acceptance of a bill subsequently drawn in favor of a person who took the same upon the faith of such promise	68
	1349
Interpretation.
A note payable to A., B., C, or D. is payable to the promisees individually, and not to the three first jointly, or the fourth.	312
A note payable when a certain third party should settle her accounts with the maker held payable after the lapse of one year, that being a reasonable time for the maker to coerce such settlement	894
Indorsement and transfer.
The transferer of a note impliedly warrants its genuineness	1060

It cannot be inferred that a transferee took the risk of the note's being a forgery because it was passed to him long after dishonor, at a heavy discount	1060
A person to whom a forged note has been passed may recover on the original consideration, without showing that defendant had knowledge of the forgery	1060
Demand: Notice: Protest.
The holder of a check must give notice to the drawer of refusal of payment by the bank, and such notice must be averred in a declaration thereon	1275
A protest cannot be made in the name of a notary by his clerk	134
Sufficiency of notarial certificate of protest	927
Where a note falls due on Saturday, notice mailed to the indorser on Monday is in time	1098
The notice is properly directed to the post office where the party is in the practice of receiving his mail, though it be not the nearest post office	1275
Release or discharge of indorser.
The first indorser is discharged where, after dishonor, an extension of credit is given without his consent, by an arrangement made between the maker, the holder, and subsequent indorsers	1098 Actions.
An averment in a declaration that A., by B., made a certain bill or check, is sufficient	1275
A promise to pay by the indorser is presumptive evidence of due notice of protest and nonpayment	1275
BILLS OF LADING.

Fire occurring on the wharf is not within the exception of dangers of the seas.	259

In the case of injury to paper stock from oil and coal forming part of the cargo, the burden is on the vessel to show that it arose from a peril excepted in the bill of lading.	126
The burden of showing that the vessel did not receive on board the number of bales of cotton receipted for is not sustained by the mere statement of the purser that such number was received, but a part of them left behind	429
The indorsement of a bill of lading transfers all the legal right in the property to the indorsee; as against a consignee who did not have prior possession	116, 117

Bonds.

See "Counties"; "Municipal Corporations"; "Principal and Surety"; "Kailroad Companies."

BOTTOMRY AND RESPONDENTIA.

To support a bottomry bond given by a master for repairs in a foreign port in which the owner has no agent, the money must have been advanced on the faith of the vessel, and must have been necessary to enable her to prosecute her voyage

BRIDGES.

See, also, "Collision."

In the case of a vessel attempting to pass a bridge across the Chicago river, the city must use every reasonable precaution, as soon as practicable after notice, to remove all obstacles

CARRIERS.

See, also, "Affreightment"; "Bills of Lading"; "Charter Parties"; "Demurrage"; "Express Companies"; "Shipping."

The carrier is discharged from liability, as such, where goods are unloaded and separated on the wharf at a suitable time, pursuant to a full and reasonable notice to the consignee of the arrival of the vessel and a readiness to deliver

Where prior notice has not been given, the responsibility of the carrier continues until the lapse of a reasonable time in which to remove the goods	262
Where the unloading is temporarily interrupted by the crowded state of the wharf, on account of the other consignees not removing their goods, no new notice need be given on resumption of the work	262, 266
Where goods are unloaded on a fast day, on which by the usage of the port consignees are not in the habit of receiving goods, and are destroyed by fire on the wharf on the same day, the carrier is liable, though due notice was given to the consignees	259, 266
Where the consignee is not present to receive the goods as they are unloaded, pursuant to a notice, the carrier is thereafter liable as an ordinary bailee for hire	266
In a case of goods landed on the steam-ship's own inclosed wharf, held , that the liability of the ship as carrier continued until the expiration of a reasonable time	178
Delivery on the wharf, where the goods are separated, and due notice is given the consignee, who has a fair opportunity to remove them, is sufficient	411
The carrier is responsible where he delivers the goods to the wrong person, though by mistake or imposition	411
A stipulation, in the bill of lading, that cotton should be received as unloaded, package by package, and thereafter should not be at the expense or risk of the vessel, is not unreasonable, and will be enforced.	411, 414

In such case, where the full number of packages are discharged on the wharf, the ship is not liable, though they were not all received by the consignee, where he had previous notice of the unloading, and the ship did not deliver to another	411, 414
The fact that the consignee was obliged to receive the cargo as landed on the wharf, package by package, does not dispense with the necessity of due notice to the consignee, and a reasonable opportunity to identify the goods, and receive them into his custody.	414
A carrier may deliver part of a shipment without impairing his right to hold the residue for freight on the whole consignment.	934
A shipper cannot hold a connecting line responsible except through the contract made by the original carrier with himself.	202 1350
The connecting carrier is held to the obligations of a common carrier, subject to the lawful restrictions made by the contract with the original carrier	202
A receipt by a carrier for transportation beyond its line, where the whole charge is paid in advance, makes out a prima facie case of a contract to deliver at the destination	171
A statement in the receipt that the company is to forward to the place nearest or most convenient to the destination only, for delivery to other parties, who shall complete the transportation, on which its liability is to cease, does not change its liability where it has arrangements for through transportation	171
A common carrier may limit his liability by an express agreement so far as the common law makes him an insurer, but not for the negligence of himself or servants	1040

The mere taking of a receipt by a dray man of the shipper containing the words “not accountable for contents” does not constitute an agreement to limit liability	1040
Under an exemption of loss by “fire or other casualty while in transit,” held , that the company was not liable where the goods were burned in the cars by a mob who took possession while operations on the road were stopped during a strike of the employés	1279
A common carrier is liable for any interruption to the transit of goods caused by a strike of its employés, which occasions loss to the owners	1279
The words in a receipt “received in good order” make a prima facie case, but may be explained or contradicted by the carrier.	1040
In a suit in rem for loss or injury of goods, it is not necessary to charge defendant as a common carrier.	1040
In the case of damage from bad stowage, the recovery is ascertained by taking the difference between the market values of the goods in the damaged and in a sound condition	127
The fact that the owner of damaged paper stock sold the same at auction, and bought it in, and manufactured it into paper will not change the rule	127
The damages for refusal by a carrier to deliver goods to the owner is the difference in market price at the time of the demand and at the actual delivery	706
A carrier can maintain an action in admiralty for damage done to goods in his care	164
The slightest negligence will render the carrier liable for injury to a passenger if, by the exercise of the strictest care or precaution reasonably	1113

within its power, the in jury would not have been sustained
The carrier is not liable if the passenger proceeds where there is apparent risk of danger, even though guilty of negligence	1113
Where a passenger is placed in imminent danger by the negligence of the carrier's servants, and makes an error in judgment in attempting to save himself, the carrier is, nevertheless, liable	275
Proof of the upsetting of defendant's stage coach, and injury to the passengers, casts the burden on defendant of showing that he exercised proper skill and care.	275
Where the accident is imputed to the misconduct of the driver, defendant must show that the driver possessed and exercised that degree of skill which competent drivers usually possess, and ought to possess to convey passengers with safety and comfort.	275
In the case of injury to a passenger by the carelessness of a stage driver, he may waive the tort and sue in assumpsit.	275

CHARITIES.

A conveyance of realty and other property, in trust "for the purpose of founding an institution for the education of youth" in a certain county, held valid	31

CHARTER PARTIES.

See, also, "Admiralty"; "Affreightment"; "Bills of Lading"; "Demurrage"; "Shipping."
Under a subcharter for "a full and complete cargo," made subject to the conditions of the charter, which described the vessel as "of the net measurement of 537 tons, or thereabouts," held , that the subcharterers were entitled to a	708

cargo space of the net measurement of 537 tons, and not to the full capacity of the vessel
A guaranty of the depth of water at the place of loading necessary for a full cargo will be held to apply to the channel through which it is necessary that the vessel shall pass to reach the sea	1192
Where, in the case of lumber, the master, at the charterer's request, attempted to raft a portion to a place where it could be taken on board to make up a full cargo, held , that the charterer must stand the loss caused by the raft's being broken up by the violence of the waves	1192
The master cannot vary the contract made by the owners with the charterer	227
Bills of lading given by the master, waiving the lien of the shipowner, are ineffectual in the hands of a person who had knowledge of the charter party	227
Where goods shipped abroad were sold at an intermediate port, and the proceeds applied to the payment of freight under the charter party, they are not subject to a lien for the charter money due on arriving at the ultimate port of destination	227
The existence of a charter party, of which the shipper had no knowledge, will not relieve the vessel from the lien which the shipper has for the safe conveyance and delivery of his goods	320
The lien of the shipowner on the goods of the charterer is not limited by the amount of the penal sum in the charter party	227
The consignee of a charterer, who deals with him in that character, must be presumed to know the contents of the charter party	1201
A payment of freight to the charterer by the consignee will not discharge the lien on the	1201

goods for the charter money where the charterer is not owner for the voyage
The master waives his lien on the goods for freight where he directs the consignee to pay the freight moneys to the charterer. 1201

CLAIMS.

The making and the presenting of false claims against the United States are distinct offenses, under Rev. St. § 5438 1144

COLLISION.

See, also, "Admiralty"; "Pleading in Admiralty"; "Practice in Admiralty"; "Towage."

Nature of liability—Contributive fault.

The effect of the tide upon a steamer entering a harbor does not make out a case of inevitable accident 86

Where a vessel injured by a collision with another at a wharf in a violent storm is cut adrift to prevent her sinking at the wharf, and collides with another vessel, held, that the latter collision is not a case of inevitable accident. 1277

A fault of one vessel will not excuse want of care, diligence, and skill in the other, so as to exempt her from sharing the loss and damage 774

Rules of navigation.

The rules of navigation are not inflexible, and a vessel which strictly adheres to them may be guilty of a tortious injury to another which fails to observe them 406

The rule on the Mississippi that ascending boats shall run the points, and descending boats the bends, will be enforced 1325

Large steamers are held to extreme diligence when in the neighborhood of smaller and weaker vessels 290

Between sail vessels.

	Page
In the case of two vessels nearing each other, the one being closehauled, and the other having the wind free, the latter must give way.	530
Between steam and sail.
A sail vessel closehauled, on meeting a steamer, must keep her course	329
A sailing vessel, discovering the lights of a steamer nearly ahead, on a dark and cloudy night, has no right afterwards to chance her course, on the supposition that she has not been seen by the steamer	782
The steamer need not slacken her speed nor change her course, where she sees the lights of another vessel, and has no reasonable ground to apprehend a collision	783
Between steam vessels.
A steamboat which signals another for a departure from the ordinary rule of navigation must take the hazard of the maneuver, whether she hears a response to the signal or not	164
A steamboat which answers two whistles of another by the same signal cannot be held in fault for starboarding her helm to pass to port	163, 164
The rule of porting the helm when meeting on parallel courses is inapplicable to a vessel moving slowly against the tide, when out of the channel of a river which is left free to the other vessel	290
A steamer descending a river, meeting a ferryboat on a crossing course on her port hand, will be held at fault for starboarding her helm instead of keeping her course	761
Overtaking vessels.
Where the vessel ahead is willfully thrown across the path of the overtaking vessel, she cannot recover for an ensuing collision, though the rear vessel be not without fault	217

Vessels moored, etc.
A general regulation of the harbor masters forbidding vessels to anchor in a certain spot will be held to have been waived where no notice was given to remove	86
A vessel which anchors in the channel or entrance to a port, except in case of necessity, or remains there longer than the necessity continues, will be held in fault in case of collision with a moving vessel	774
It is no defense to a libel for injury to a sloop by the lurching of a scow moored along side, during which she dumped her deck load of stone, that the lurching was caused by the swells from a passing steamer and the scow striking the ground, as, in such case, the owner was at fault in mooring the scow next the sloop	865
In case of a collision with a vessel at anchor, the moving vessel is prima facie at fault	774
River and harbor navigation.
An upgoing boat on the Ohio river may signal which side of the down boat she will take, but she cannot insist upon such rule when its observance will render a collision probable	661
A vessel entering a harbor at night should have her crew on deck on the look out	774
A steam tug moving in a slip in a fog is not required to sound her steam whistles as a signal to a steamer moving outside	1137
Steamer navigating the East river, rounding Corlear's Hook, when a thick fog shut down upon her, and she was unable to anchor, held in fault for running near the piers, instead of keeping into the middle of the stream	1188
Lights, signals, etc.

A ship is in fault in having her colored lights placed abaft her mizzen rigging, so as to be obscured from a vessel approaching ahead	1152
Carrying the statutory lights will not exonerate a vessel from responsibility for a collision, where the special circumstances reasonably called for extraordinary measures to apprise other vessels of her proximity and character.	101
The failure to display the exact statutory light by a vessel at anchor is not sufficient contributory negligence to prevent recovery of damages for a collision occasioned by the reckless navigation of another vessel	855
A vessel lying in the channel of a port from necessity is bound in the nighttime to show a light	774
Where a collision on the high seas between a foreign vessel and a vessel of the United States was caused by the neglect of the latter to carry the lights required by the acts of congress, her owner cannot recover against the foreign vessel	783
The sail vessel will be held solely in fault for a collision with a steamer where she carried only a white light, which induced the steamer to believe that she was another steamer, whose side lights had not yet come into view	783
Lookouts; officers, etc.
Steamboats navigating the western rivers must have a competent and vigilant look out stationed on the forward part of the hurricane deck	19
The fact that the hurricane deck was crowded with passengers is no excuse for the failure to keep a lookout stationed there	19
A neglect to keep a proper lookout, which does not in any way contribute to a collision, cannot be alleged as a ground of recovery	1325

The chief mate of a schooner, during his watch on deck, is a proper lookout	1152
Particular instances of collision.
Between schooner and steamer going at the rate of nine knots an hour, where the latter was held in fault for reversing in stead of changing her helm	329
Between two steamers at night on the Hudson river, where the fact that a single light was carried on one vessel was held to have misled the other. (Reversing 406.)	406
Between two steamers in the East river, where one was held in fault for failure to shape her course according to her signal, and in keeping on, instead of stopping, where danger of collision was apparent	1078
Between propeller with defective screens on her side lights, having the right of way, and steamship with negligent lookout, where both were held liable. (Modifying 418.)	420
Between tow going up the East river, along the Brooklyn shore, on an ebb tide. and a steamer coming down the river, and attempting to sheer across the bows of the tug, where the steamer was held solely in fault	869
Between tow and overtaking steamer, where both tug and steamer were held in fault for crowding	219
Between tow and steamboat on the Hudson river, caused by the attempt of the latter to pass to the starboard	163, 164
Between tow and steamer on dark and rainy night, where the tug was deceived by her inability to see the colored lights, and took the steamer for a vessel at anchor, and was held at fault for keeping on at full speed	101

Between steamer on the East river in a fog and tug maneuvering inside of the end of the piers, where the former was held in fault for being out of her place, and for too great speed	1136, 1137
Procedure.
Evidence of a careful lookout that no light could be seen on an approaching vessel is affirmative evidence that no light was burning on her	313
Libelant cannot have a decree for full damages unless he show both fault on the other vessel and the absence of fault on his part, which contributed to the collision	661
Libelant must show, by preponderating evidence, that the other vessel was guilty of negligence or of some misconduct	530
In the case of a collision between a steamboat and a heavily laden flatboat, the presumption of fault is against the steamer where there is a doubt by reason of a conflict in the evidence	914
A ship, having come in from sea in a seaworthy condition, the fact that she was sunk at her anchorage, by the blow of a steamship carried against her by the tide, does not establish that she was not tight and strong	86
Evidence of the witnesses on board of one vessel that the lights of the other were not seen, though a careful lookout was kept, held to outweigh the testimony of witnesses for the other vessel that her lights were brightly burning, coupled with a suspicious circumstance that her lights were saved, though her crew had no time to save their clothing	313
Rule of damages.
Inhuman conduct of the master of a vessel in collision, in not giving proper assistance to the damaged vessel and her passengers and crew, cannot be considered in estimating damages	530

The owner, after collision, who allows his boat to lie until she becomes worth less, is only entitled to the expense of raising her, and putting her in repair, with a reasonable allowance for loss of time and freight and damage to the cargo	285
Where the only evidence introduced was as to the total value of the vessel, the court may either allow nominal damages or estimate them from the court's knowledge of such cases and the general facts proven	285
Where the repairs exceeded the value of the vessel, held , that libelant should recover only her value at the time of the accident and the necessary expenses to ascertain the extent of her injuries	865
Full value was allowed where the amount for which a sunken vessel was sold after she was raised did not exceed the expenses of raising her	1137
Where competent persons offered to raise a sunken vessel for a certain sum, damages for expenses of raising must be reduced to such sum	89
Demurrage for the delay beyond the time it would have taken such persons to raise the vessel cannot be allowed	89
Demurrage for delay in making repairs is recoverable, though such repairs made the vessel worth more than she was worth before the collision	414
The expenses of repairs were reduced to the lowest estimate where the bills were exaggerated, with the connivance of the master	298
In the case of a vessel sunk at her anchorage in the port of her destination, the value of the	89

cargo must be taken at such port, less freight and duties
For an injury to cargo carried to its destination after the vessel is raised and repaired, the vessel at fault is only liable for the loss that would have been sustained on its immediate sale at the nearest port	914
The amount paid for the hire of a vessel to take the place of the injured one is better evidence of the proper amount of demurrage than the opinion of witnesses	164
Division of damages.
Where a collision happens without fault of either party, or the fault cannot be ascertained, or if both were in fault, the damage and loss are equally divided	774
In the case of mutual fault, the damages will be equally divided	661
Division and apportionment of damages where a vessel and cargo were totally lost, and the other vessel injured, in a case of mutual fault	420

Proceedings of the board of directors at a special meeting not called in the manner prescribed by the by-laws may be subsequently ratified by the corporation	306
A corporation is private unless the whole interest belongs to the government, or it be created for the administration of political or municipal power	6
A deed to a corporation of land which it is prohibited by its charter from taking is absolutely void as to all persons	60
A corporation having power to purchase only such real estate as is required for its business, or mortgaged or conveyed for debts, or purchased on judgments, or obtained on debts, cannot, on a foreclosure sale of a prior mortgage, acquire title to that portion of the tract of land not included in its mortgage	60
A foreign corporation engaged in the business of reducing ores may purchase more land for the erection of its works than that required at the time, and may subsequently sell the parts not needed	205, 207
Authority in the charter to acquire and hold property to a certain amount is an implied prohibition against the purchase of property to a greater amount, and invalidates a contract therefor	966
A corporation cannot execute a deed or mortgage otherwise than under its seal	161
The power to execute a mortgage of real estate by the officers can only be conferred by vote of the directors acting as a board	161

Comparative authority of federal and state courts: Process.
The court obtains jurisdiction on the filing of a bill of all matter cognate to the litigation	1331
The attachment of freight moneys in the hands of third persons by a sheriff under process from the state court will not prevent the marshal from levying process upon it in a suit in rem by seamen to recover their wages, so as to give jurisdiction to the district court in admiralty	152
Federal courts—Jurisdiction in general.
The jurisdictional amount is that laid in the writ and declaration, and not that proved by plaintiff — Grounds of jurisdiction.	1275
A suit in equity to stay proceedings at law pending in a federal court may be maintained in such court without regard to the citizenship or alienage of the parties	212
In the case of a corporation party, the court will conclusively regard all the share holders as citizens of the state which created the corporation	198
The federal circuit court had no jurisdiction on the ground of subject-matter of a suit against a person not a resident in the district, and not personally served with process, and not appearing therein, though an attachment has been made of his property	135
A corporation created by the laws of another state, but operating a railroad within the district, is found therein for the service of process	604
A foreign corporation is "found within" another state when it transacts its ordinary business and	724 has a local agent there, on whom by the state law original process may be served

In a suit for infringement of a patent against a foreign corporation, process may be served on an agent within the district, although the business transacted therein has no connection with the infringement	605
A federal circuit court is within the provisions of a state law that foreign corporations doing business within the state should submit themselves to service of process issuing out of "any court of this commonwealth having jurisdiction of the subject-matter."	724
Jurisdiction of an inhabitant of the district cannot be acquired by an attachment of his property	138
Defendant may take advantage of plaintiff's omission to state that he is a citizen or subject of a foreign state by motion in arrest of judgment	1218
Where neither party is a citizen of the state, but defendant served therein does not plead the matter in abatement, he cannot subsequently set it up	929
The federal circuit courts have jurisdiction of a bill to foreclose a mortgage in behalf of a nonresident assignee, though the assignor could not by reason of citizenship have filed such bill	956
A note payable to a certain person or bearer may be sued on in the name of the bearer, without alleging the citizenship of the payee named	133
The fact that the parties plaintiff and defendant to a cross bill, or some of them, are citizens of the same state, will not prevent its being sustained in the federal court, where necessary to prevent injustice; and defendants, as parties	667

to the original bill, are subject to the jurisdiction of the court
The federal circuit court has jurisdiction of an action against a collector of customs to recover back money paid as duties, and alleged to have been illegally exacted, irrespective of the citizenship of the parties	702
The federal circuit court has jurisdiction of a suit upon a supersedeas bond given in that court, independent of the citizenship of the parties	1131
—Circuit courts.
A defendant, to give jurisdiction on the ground of residence in a certain district, must be a real, and not merely a nominal, party to the suit. (Act Feb. 10. 1855, § 9.)	133
Where a state contains more than one district, and the suit is not of a local nature, the suit must be brought in the district in which one or more of the defendants resides	1024
The federal circuit court has jurisdiction of an original civil suit in which plaintiff is a citizen and defendant an alien and resident foreign consul, duly admitted as such by the president	212
A citizen of Pennsylvania may maintain a suit in the federal circuit court in New Jersey against a corporation of the latter state for injuries to lands lying in the former state by a canal located in New Jersey	6
The circuit court has jurisdiction of a bill filed by a stockholder of a national bank to enjoin its officers from an illegal application of funds to his prejudice	1331

The federal courts are not bound by the decision of the highest court of the state that mandamus is the only proper remedy upon municipal bonds	363
—Procedure.
Rev. St. § 914, applies only to such procedure as is established by the statutes of the several states, and not to that established by judicial construction of common-law remedies	363
The remedy by an action of mandamus, given by Rev. Code Iowa, § 3770, cannot be enforced in the federal courts	16
Local courts.
The circuit court of the District of Columbia has no jurisdiction of an attachment for a sum less than $20	101

Invoice: Entry: Appraisal.
The duties on spirituous liquors are to be assessed on the actual quantity arriving, and not on that shipped	747
To obtain a reduction of duties on goods damaged during the voyage, the importer must demand an appraisal before entry	1247
Where wool is packed in hides of equal value therewith, which are an article of value in the market, the weight of the hides will not be deducted in ascertaining the cost of the wool per pound	595
The appraisal is not set aside by an appeal, though the collector illegally refuses to order a reappraisal	700
Under Act Aug. 30. 1842, §§ 16, 17, an appraisal by public appraisers is final and conclusive, unless the importer gives to the collector an absolute and unconditional notice of his dissatisfaction with such appraisal	700
The 20 per cent, penalty imposed by Act July 30, 1846, § 8, attaches if the appraised value of the goods exceeds by 10 per cent the valuation in the entry, whether the importer has made the addition or not	700
Payment: Protest.
General expressions in a protest, which may include the specific objections, are not sufficient as the basis of an action to recover back duties illegally exacted	136
In the case of spirituous liquors erroneously assessed on the invoice quantity, a protest written on the face of the entries, "The actual gage and two per cent, claimed for leakage," held sufficient	747
Sufficiency of protest as to the appraisement of goods	657

Actions for duties paid.
A collector who demands and receives illegal duties, which are paid to him under protest, is liable in an action of assumpsit. (Act Feb. 26. 1845.)	702
The fact that the exaction of duties was not warranted by law will not prevent the decision of the collector being final and conclusive, under Act June 30, 1864, £ 15, where there was a failure to appeal to the secretary of the treasury	1190
An appeal under Act March 3, 1857, £ 5, to the secretary of the treasury, is not a condition precedent to a right of action against the collector to recover back duties illegally exacted, where the question is only as to the rate or amount of duty, and not as to exemption therefrom	702
Unless the exception does not appear on the face of the appraisement, it must be distinctly pointed out by protest, to raise the question in an action to recover back duties	700
Violations of law: Forfeiture.
Goods landed at different times, but from the same cargo and vessel, may be added together to make up the requisite amount to forfeit the vessel, under Act 1799, £ 50	438
Allegations in the libel as to the goods landed and their value bind the government	438
A permit obtained by fraud or an oral permit from the custom officer to land goods will not save a forfeiture, under Act 1799, £ 50	441
A vessel is not forfeited by the landing without a permit of two gallons of brandy, taken on board by a seaman for his own use on the voyage home	438

EXTRADITION.

It is optional with the executive to surrender a fugitive from justice where there is no treaty or act of congress requiring it to be done 1214

Under the treaty with Great Britain of August. 1842, a person charged with piracy on board a British vessel on the high seas may be arrested and surrendered without any special act to carry the treaty into effect 1214

Such persons may be examined by a state magistrate, and ordered into custody, with a view to a future surrender 1214

The order to surrender may be signed by the secretary of state, and be issued from the state department 1214

The application for the surrender may be made by the British minister, and need not be founded upon a previous indictment or warrant 1214

FACTORS AND BROKERS.

The factor has no lien for a balance with out possession of the goods, and a right in the principal to the property on which the lien is to operate 117

The transferee, for value, of a bill of lading, before the goods come to the possession of the consignee, has a right thereto, as against the consignee's lien for a general balance of account against the consignor 116.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER.

The summons is sufficient if it contains the substance of the complaint, so as to apprise defendant of the nature and extent of the claim 66

Certiorari to review proceedings in forcible entry and detainer is allowed to defendant as well as complainant 66

Forfeiture.

See "Customs Duties"; "Informers"; "Internal Revenue"; "Shipping."

FRAUD.

See, also, "Deceit."

Where, on the sale of a timber tract, the vendor states that he is not acquainted with the land, and requests the vendee's agent to examine for himself, which he does, an action will not lie for false representations after five years, during which the vendee has sold part of the land, and cut part of the timber 314

FRAUDS. STATUTE OF.

Sufficiency of memorandum of sale of goods *257

Where the seller was to deliver goods free of truckage, there is no delivery where they are sent by rail, and left at the station, with a notice to the purchaser that they have arrived 257

The title passes, within the Massachusetts statute of frauds, where goods bought on a credit of 60 days were weighed out and selected by the buyer, marked with his name, and placed in the seller's warehouse, subject to the buyer's call at any time 142

A verbal acceptance of an order drawn at the foot of an account of a third person against the drawer is not a promise to pay the debt of another within the statute 1311

FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

See, also, "Bankruptcy"; "Creditors' Bill."

A sale by one partner to another of an insolvent firm, for a valuable consideration, is not a fraud upon the firm creditors 51

A conveyance by a solvent grantor to his wife through a third person, where there was no intention to defraud creditors, will not be set aside on behalf of subsequent creditors *986

Mexican land grant confirmed where the question was one as to location only	1073
The fact that a Mexican title document is written on unstamped paper is not fatal to its validity	1230
A grant purporting to convey land lying within the limits of a colony will be void if the land, in fact, lies outside such limits, unless the parties acted in good faith	1230
Assisting witnesses held not necessary to the validity of final Mexican titles extended by alcaldes and commissioners to make sales	1230
GUARANTY.
See, also, "Bills, Notes, and Checks"; "Indemnity"; "Principal and Surety."
A guaranty of the notes of a certain person cannot be applied as the guaranty of the joint notes of that person and another, given in renewal of the notes of the former	56
GUARDIAN AND WARD.
The appointment of a guardian of a non resident minor under a statute authorizing such appointment "after notice," etc., is void where the record does not affirmatively show that the notice was given	941
A sale by such a guardian is not validated by a statute making valid all sales under orders of the probate court, where there have been "defects of form, or omissions, or errors."	941

Rules prescribed by the laws of the United States for the distribution of the proceeds of a forfeiture	583
The information to induce a seizure need not be as full as the evidence in the case would authorize. It is sufficient if it induce the prosecution	583
The officers of a revenue cutter, when giving information, need not make a claim for a part of the forfeiture, nor need they take part in the prosecution to be entitled to a share	583
The consent by officers of a revenue cutter that property seized on their information shall be sent to another district for trial, and a disavowal of having instituted the suit, does not constitute a waiver	583
Officers of a revenue cutter suing for the informer's share of a forfeiture need not prove their commissions	583
The collector of a port who received the proceeds of a forfeiture is not liable for such part as he has paid over to custom-house officers for their shares before notice of plaintiff's claim	583
The officers of a revenue cutter may join in an action of assumpsit against the collector for their proportion of a forfeiture	586

INJUNCTION.

See, also, "Copyright"; "Patents."
There is no material difference between the principles and rules applicable to equity proceedings in copyright or patent right cases and those applicable to other suits in equity	876
A temporary injunction will not be granted to restrain the construction of a dike in the plan of improvement of a river directed by the secretary of war under an appropriation of congress	762

Fraud in obtaining jurisdiction in the federal court is a good ground in equity to stay execution of a judgment obtained in such action	562
An injunction might also be granted against levying the execution on articles improperly attached, when not good against the execution itself	562
An affidavit is not an indispensable prerequisite to the issuance of an injunction, but other proof may be accented	687
Affidavits evidently intended to be used in a case, but not entitled in it, may be read on motion for an injunction	1335
Mere delay in the issuing of subpoena after an injunction has been granted is not a sufficient ground for dissolving it, where it happened through inadvertence and mistake	687

INSOLVENCY.

Courts of admiralty govern themselves by the analogies of the common-law limitations of actions 432

In cases of concurrent jurisdiction, courts of equity act in obedience to the statute of limitations, and not merely by analogy 1303

Query, whether state statutes of limitation apply to suits for infringement of letters patent 603

Under Rev. St. § 721, state statutes of limitations are applicable to actions in the national courts, except where the laws of the United States otherwise provide 611

An action for infringement of a patent before June 22, 1874, comes within the limitation of Act July 8, 1870, § 55, under Rev. St. § 5599, and is not within the operation of the state statute of limitations 611, 613

The limitation of actions for infringement of patents under Act 1870, § 55, commences to run from the expiration of the original term, though the patent has been renewed 603

The right to a lien.

A shipping agent has no lien for expenses of 941 fitting out and notarial fees at the home port

A part owner and general agent and superintendent of a line of boats has no lien for 174 materials, but must be regarded as having given credit to the company

Under the maritime law, persons furnishing material or labor for the building or repair of a 185 vessel have a lien, unless the same is expressly waived by the contract

The owners of a vessel, who accept the insurance on it and the net proceeds of a sale by the master, are estopped, as against persons 446 who furnished advances to the purchasers on the credit of the vessel, to set up invalidity of the sale

Advances made in a foreign port for repairs and supplies to a vessel, at the request of purchasers 447 from the master, held made on the credit of the vessel

Under the general maritime law, a lien for materials furnished exists against foreign ships 484 and those of other states of the Union, which may be enforced in admiralty independently of any bottomry bond

No implied lien is created by the general maritime law where the owner himself is present, and makes the contract	484
Supplies sold to a master in a foreign port are presumed to be sold on the credit of the vessel	174
The place at which the ship's husband spends two-thirds of his time, and transacts his business, is the proper place for enrolling and licensing the vessel, though he has a legal domicile in another district	185
A lien arises for supplies furnished on the credit of a vessel in a foreign port on the authority of the master, appointed by a purchaser from a former master on a sale made in fraud of the rights of the real owner, where the creditor has no notice of circumstances to raise suspicion	448
There is no lien, under the maritime law, for advances for the purchase of a vessel sold by her master in a foreign port	447
Commissions on advances made on the credit of a vessel in a foreign port for necessary supplies and repairs, when agreed on or shown to be customary in the trade, are proper items of allowance	447
Supplies furnished in Maine by a material man in New York to a vessel belonging in New York are foreign supplies, and give rise to a privilege	458
The ship's agent in such a case may have a lien	458
A ship chandler in one state, in which the purchaser of a vessel resided, who furnishes materials to her builders in another, without knowledge of any interest or possession of the purchaser, where the title had not passed out of the builders, may have a lien	472
A purchaser of supplies necessary to a foreign vessel can assert no lien therefor, unless he	472

prove that they could not have been obtained without such lien upon the credit of the owner
Jersey City is foreign to New York City in the sense of the law governing supplies to ships	458
There is no lien on a vessel for advances made on a draft drawn by the agent for underwriters for her repairs while in the hands of the underwriters, to whom she was abandoned	908
A lien arises, without an express agreement therefor, where a chain and anchor are furnished by another vessel in a foreign port, in which the owner's credit is not good	911
The master has authority to bind the owners for necessary repairs and supplies in the port of her registry, at which the owner does not reside, and to whom there is no ready access	752
In the case of a vessel built at one place for parties resident in another, the former place is her home port until after her delivery and her first voyage	847
No lien arises for painting a vessel while in the custody of the ship builder, before her completion	847
Priority and enforcement.
Maritime liens take precedence in the order of the arrest of the res, and not pro rata or in the order of debts incurred	742, 744, 746
Exceptions to this rule are bottomry bonds and seamen's wages	744
Advances made by a mortgagee to subsisting lien holders at the time of taking possession under the mortgage should be paid in the order in which the liens themselves would have been paid	174

Maritime liens have priority over mortgages without reference to the time when they accrued. (Overruling 742, 744.)	174, 746. 747
Material men, having liens by local laws, have priority over mortgagees in the distribution of the surplus	174
A lien for supplies furnished to a vessel founded upon a state statute, and not of a strictly maritime character, will not take priority over a prior recorded mortgage	798
A claim for the balance of the purchase price of a vessel has priority over a claim for supplies in the home port, but the latter will take precedence over a claim for advances subsequently made by the seller to fit the vessel for sea	215
A lien arising for damages suffered by a collision is paramount to all prior liens, including those for wages due	19
The surplus proceeds are subject, as against the owner, to the master's claim for wages and disbursements on account of the vessel up to the time of her seizure, but not after such time	404
The lien of a material man is assignable, and, where the assignment is absolute, the assignee should proceed in admiralty in his own name	458
An attachment proceeding in the state court, not followed by a decree, does not give the attaching creditor any priority over a creditor subsequently filing a libel in the admiralty court	710
No difference will be made in the enforcement of maritime liens between those created by state statute and those given by the general maritime law	747
In the absence of the owner, a mortgagee may be permitted to appear as claimant	1048
Waiver: Discharge: Extinguishment.

The lien is not waived by charging the materials against the builder of a vessel without naming the vessel	294
The acceptance of a note by the creditor does not waive the lien where it is not received in payment	102
The lien is not discharged by taking the note of an agent of the vessel, unless so intended by both parties	458
The general agent of a ship at her home port is not entitled to be subrogated to the lien of seamen whose wages he has paid in the regular course of his agency	458
The assignment of a note given to the creditor extinguishes the lien, and it is not revived where the note is subsequently taken up by the creditor	102
A lien is not lost by two years' delay where the vessel has not been within the United States during such time	911
A libel will not lie in admiralty after the lapse of six years where the vessel has been within reach of the process of the court, to the knowledge of libelants, for a reasonable time	432
Liens under state laws.
There must be an appropriation, express or implied, to the vessel, of the labor or materials, at the time of the contract or of its execution, to give a lien under Rev. St. Me. c. 125. § 35	1107
To give a lien under 2 Rev. St. N. Y. p. 493, § 1, it is not necessary that each item should amount to $50, but only that the whole account should aggregate that sum	215
Putting into a port on account of a fog and to get provisions is an "arrival" into the port, under a local law providing that a lien given thereby shall cease in such case. (Reversing 294.)	292

A lien under a statute providing against extension of time is not defeated by an agreement to take payment in a promissory note, if no note has, in fact, been given or tendered	967
A lien given by the local law for services of a person as keeper on board of a vessel while secured to a wharf is not enforceable in admiralty	37
The amendment of 1871 to rule 12 did not abrogate the distinction between a domestic contract and a maritime lien but relates only to the process	1048
A libel in admiralty may be maintained for repairs and supplies furnished to a domestic vessel at the home port. (Rule 12. amended 1871.)	1048
A lien given by the state law for supplies furnished by material men in the home port will be enforced in admiralty, but the admiralty court is not bound by the priority given it	744
MARSHAL.
Fees of marshals in proceedings relating to slaves	1
The payment of money under a decree without an execution having been issued in a suit in rem in which a stipulation for value was given is a settlement of the claim by the parties, within Act Feb. 6, 1853, entitling the marshal to commissions	90
To an action on a marshal's bond for taking insufficient security on a replevin bond, a plea that a levy was made on goods and chattels, lands and tenements, sufficient to satisfy the judgment, is good in bar	974
MARSHALING ASSETS.
In the case of liens on the same property for different debts, where one also has a lien on	50 other property, equity will direct such property to be first sold before that which is common to both liens

A second mortgagee, not made a party to a foreclosure suit brought by the first mortgagee, is not affected thereby, and a sale under the decree will not be enjoined at his instance	929
Where a part of the tract has been sold by a prior mortgagee or the mortgagor has no title thereto, it may be omitted in the bill to foreclose	974
On foreclosure, the title and possession remain in the mortgagor until a valid conveyance is made by the officer authorized to make the sale	1063
In the case of a creditor bank whose charter had expired 16 years before, a trustee in a deed given to secure the debt was ordered to convey to the heirs of the debtor	539
Where the mortgagee, before the foreclosure took effect, agreed to receive the money from the mortgagor, and subsequently transferred his rights to the person who advanced the money, held not a discharge of the mortgage, but a transfer of the land	1164

Misnomer is no ground of arrest of judgment after plea in bar, but the proceedings are subject to amendment	893
NAVIGABLE WATERS.
In the case of a highway adjoining a navigable stream, the right of passage from one to the other must be free to all	23
The proviso in an act authorizing the improvement of a river that certain mill dams shall not be altered, nor the water running thereto diverted or obstructed, held not a grant of the water, but a mere license, revocable at pleasure	6
Harbor fees, under Act Va. Jan. 18, 1798	1313
NEW TRIAL.
A new trial will be granted where a writ ten instrument was admitted in evidence on the erroneous assumption that it was an original paper	547
A new trial will not be granted for an error of the court in permitting illegal testimony to go to the jury, where no objection was made at the time	29
Where the verdict is excessive, plaintiff may be allowed to remit the excess, instead of submitting to a new trial	57
OFFICE AND OFFICER.

Where a session of congress passes without the filling of an office which was created and took effect during a previous session of the senate, the president cannot make a valid appointment during a recess of the senate	672
A person appointed to an office without authority, and who never performed an official duty as such officer, is not an officer de jure or de facto	672
Public officers, when acting under the scope of their duty, must be presumed to have fulfilled every requisite which the discharge of their duty demands	40

PARTIES.

A corporation which has conveyed its property in trust to secure a debt is a necessary party to a suit to vindicate its rights in respect to such property as against a wrongdoer	306
In a suit to enforce a trust, where one of the joint equitable owners with plaintiff is out of the jurisdiction, and will not join in the suit, the court has power to proceed in his absence	888
A person interested in the thing in controversy, not made a party to the bill, may, on his motion or petition, be made a party by amendment	844
A complainant cannot be compelled to add new parties to his bill if he chooses to take the responsibility of their not being made parties	929
An objection of want of parties can be taken only by plea or answer, and the name or description of the parties who should be brought in must be specified	1018

PARTNERSHIP.

A transfer by one partner of his interest in the firm to his copartner, if made in good faith, is binding on the firm creditors	1311
The crediting to each member of his interest in the firm on taking in a new partner will not affect the right of the firm creditors	1153
The continuing partner, who agrees to appropriate the goods on hand to the payment of the debts of the firm, becomes a trustee for the retiring partner and the creditors	974
An assignment of all interest in a firm to a copartner, stating that the firm is dissolved except so far as is necessary to continue the same for the final settlement of the business, does not dissolve the firm	1256

PATENTS.

Patentability.

One prior use before plaintiffs invention will defeat his patent	600
A prior use is not necessary to destroy a patent to a subsequent inventor, where the construction of the thing itself shows that it was within the principle of the patented invention	600
A substantially new combination of old materials is patentable	110
A combination containing the same elements as those of a prior combination is patentable if substantially different, and accomplishing new and useful results	348
A mere aggregation of old devices, in which the parts have no new operation and produce no result which is due to the combination itself, is not patentable	512

A machine possesses patentable merit where, taken as a whole in its construction and operation, it is an advance upon the state of the art to which it appertains, furnishing a better method of performing a useful function than was before available	1117
A patent for the separation of a pavement into sections, while it is being formed in the place where it is to be used, is not anticipated by a pavement made of blocks of cement made elsewhere, and laid like bricks or flags	696
Who may obtain patent.
Priority of conception, followed by a prior patent, gives priority of right	605
The abandonment of an improvement once made and used will not entitle a subsequent inventor to a patent	597
Prior public use or sale.
Mere public use and sale of the invention before application for a patent, where with out the consent and allowance of the inventor, do not invalidate the patent	78
The public use or sale of an invention, without the knowledge or consent of the inventor, after the application for a patent, and before the grant, will not deprive him of the right to a patent	110
The use in public for more than two years of a machine substantially the same as that afterwards patented cannot be alleged to be experimental	321
The sale of a single device, embodying the invention, eight years before applying for a patent, will invalidate the same	716
A sale of a perfected machine on trial, with the right to return or keep it, where made more	1011

than two years before the application, will bar the right to a patent Prior description.
The description of an invention in a public work will bar the right to a patent, though it has not been put in use	1006
Abandonment: Laches.
It is only where the invention is intentionally abandoned or neglected, or the parties show by their acts that they have not done all that they can do, that protection will be refused the inventor	597
Mere lapse of time before an inventor applies for a patent for his invention does not per se constitute an abandonment	78
A delay of over four years in filing an application, during which time another has invented the same thing and applied for a patent, will bar the first inventor's right	551
Abandonment may take place within the two years prior to the application for a patent	321
Application and issue: Interference.
A patent of an improvement to prevent loss of life by the explosion of powder mills is properly refused where it appears that it would not have the effect designed	320
The commissioner cannot require evidence that they combination will produce the result claimed, where the application conforms to the requirements of the office, and the invention does not fall within any of the conditions mentioned in the law as a sufficient ground for rejection	1016
Appeals front commissioner's decision.
On an application for a reissue and division of a patent, under Act March 3, 1837, the	1026

divisions for the purposes of an appeal are to be considered as a whole, and not as separate cases
The court is limited to the papers and evidence which were before the commissioner, and has no power either to receive proof of experts, or to send the case back to take such proofs	320
The court on appeal has ample power to allow an examiner to be interrogated on the subject of the invention for which a patent is claimed	1016
The date of an invention may be fixed by reference to another circumstance, the date of which latter is sworn to by another witness	1298
Validity.
The patentee need not be able to state the scientific reasons for the operation of the process, or the production of the result patented. It is sufficient if his description will enable one skilled in the art to practice the process or accomplish the result	210
Extent of claim.
Claims too broad upon their face may be restricted by the words "substantially as described," so as to render the patent valid	1121
The language of the patent will be liberally construed, and, by taking the whole together, that interpretation will be adopted which will give the fullest effect to the nature and extent of the claim made by the inventor	110
The inventor of a new compound, wholly unknown before, is not limited to the use always of the same precise ingredients in making that compound	110
Construction of a claim of "the combination of a lock and latch," where the only invention consisted in making the latch bolt reversible	78
Reissue: Disclaimer.

	Page
On a surrender and reissue, the patentee has a right to a patent for a division or separation of each essential part in combination with the other parts of the same invention in which it was connected	1026
The validity of the reissue is to be determined by comparing the terms and import of the original and reissued letters, and a consideration of the patent office drawings and model	1117
A reissue cannot be sustained by extrinsic proof that the patentee was the inventor of all that is claimed in it, if such claim was not shown or suggested in the original specification, drawings, or model	512
There may be a disclaimer of something which was introduced into the reissued patent, which did not exist in the original patent	696
The patentee may eliminate or withdraw in the same writing with the disclaimer the parts of the body of the specification on which the disclaimed claim, or part of a claim, is founded	696
The remedial provisions of Act July 8, 1870, § 111, are limited to suits and proceedings commenced after its passage	512
Where a proper disclaimer is entered during pendency of a suit, plaintiff may recover in respect of what is not disclaimed, where there has been no unreasonable neglect or delay to enter the disclaimer; but the recovery is to be without costs	696
Assignment.
An assignment which does not convey the entire or unqualified monopoly which the patentee holds in the territory specified, or an undivided interest in the entire monopoly, is a mere license	362
Infringement—What constitutes.

	Page
A change of form merely, or of mechanical structure, which produces no new or materially improved results, is an infringement	501
A patent for a combination of old devices is infringed by a combination which merely substitutes a single device, which at the date of the patent was a well known equivalent	348
A device which performs, both mechanically and practically in defendant's combination, the same office that is performed in plaintiff's patent, is an equivalent there for, in the combination, though it also performs an additional office	512
A patent for a combination of old devices is infringed by its use to accomplish some thing more or better, which could not be effected without its aid	600
A sale of the materials of a patented machine on an execution against the owner will not subject the sheriff to an action for infringement	554
The manufacture of one of the elements of a patented combination, not proved to be made for use in connection with the other elements, is not an infringement of the patent	593
A patent for a concrete pavement laid in sections, claiming the interposition between the blocks of permanent material, held infringed by the temporary interposition of material while the pavement was in the process of formation	690 —Remedy generally.
Equity has jurisdiction of a bill by a patentee against an infringer which seeks merely a discovery and account of profits	603
Where the patentee exercises his monopoly by granting licenses indiscriminately, the measure of his damages is the price or value of the license; and an account of profits is not	321

required, and the jurisdiction of equity need not be invoked
After the expiration of a patent, a federal court will not entertain jurisdiction of a suit for infringement under its general equity jurisdiction, where the bill, is not for an account or a discovery	613
A bill to recover profits, if it be not a bill for discovery, cannot be entertained as a bill for an account, in order to confer equitable jurisdiction	613
Where there is no question of fiduciary property in a patent, the infringer cannot be treated as a trustee de son tort, and the court cannot upon that ground entertain equitable jurisdiction	613
A covenant, founded on a valuable consideration, not to further infringe a patent, will be enforced by injunction	501
Where the patentee sues in equity for an infringement, he need not first establish his legal right in a court at law and by a verdict of a jury	321
—Preliminary injunction.
The public acquiescence in an inventor's claim of right for two years before his application is entitled to weight in considering his right to a preliminary injunction	501
Where sufficient possession is made out, a doubt as to the validity of the patent will not necessarily prevent an injunction. The court will consider the comparative inconvenience or loss to be occasioned by granting or withholding it	505
What is a sufficient public acquiescence in the exclusive right of a patentee to make a prima facie title without a judgment at law	505

An unsuccessful attempt to interrupt the patentee's possession strengthens the presumption in his favor	505
An injunction will not issue where defendant is manufacturing under letters patent, unless the court can see from an inspection alone that he is infringing	511
The ruling of another federal court on a motion is not a sufficient decision upon the merits to warrant an injunction where infringement is positively denied	511
The patent never having been the subject of litigation, complainant was ordered to file an injunction bond before the issue of the writ	1245
On denying an application, defendant was required to be ready to try a pending action at law at the next term	1085
Denied where plaintiff had twice failed to establish his right in suits at law, and there was no public acquiescence	1085
Denied where defendant has letters patent for the same invention as plaintiff's, which are prima facie valid	495
—Procedure.
Where the contract is for the purchase of a portion of a patent right, the legal right in the monopoly remains in the patentee, and he alone can sue for an infringement	362
In such case the licensee need not be joined in the action	362
Where both parties assert rights under different patents with identical claims, defendant cannot set up that the claim in plaintiff's patent does not claim patentable subject-matter	78
A rehearing will be ordered where it appears doubtful whether a decree adverse to the patent	718

could be sustained under the allegations in the answer, with leave to amend such answer
The question of abandonment, whether in regard to the time prior to two years before the application for the patent or to the time included in such two years, is a question of fact	78 —Evidence.
The patent is prima facie evidence of novelty and utility, and that the patentee was the first inventor	348, 1085
Positive testimony of witnesses as to the existence of prior mechanism will outweigh merely negative proof	600
An injunction will not be granted where the patentee exercises his monopoly by granting licenses indiscriminately	321
Circumstances stated which govern the amount of the fine to be imposed for a contempt of court in violating an injunction	690
—Decree, and its effect.
Where no infringement is found, the court will not pass upon the validity of the patent	593
—Accounting: Damages.
The rule of damages is the profits which have been derived by defendants from the use of plaintiff's machine over any other mode which defendants had a right to adopt	1085
Where no profits are proved to have been made by defendant, complainant can not recover as damages the profits which it would have made on the articles sold by defendant	212
Reduction of prices, and consequent loss of profits, caused by the competition of the infringer, is a proper ground for awarding damages	507

The use of plaintiff's patent restored the salable character of the article defendant made, and saved defendant from loss. Held , that the money value of such advantage could be recovered as compensation, though there were no profits	509
The amount paid by defendant for a license to use a patented device, which he afterwards substituted for plaintiffs de vice. held to be the proper measure of the value of the invention to defendant	509
The owner of a patent is entitled to re cover the damages from a reduction of prices caused by the competition of the infringer, although he is accountable to a copartner for a part of them	507
A court of equity cannot inflict exemplary or punitive damages where defendant has acted wantonly or vexatiously	321
Where a patent for concrete pavement claimed the separation of the pavement in sections, and, on an account of profits for infringement, there was no proof of a license fee or the Value of the patented improvement, held , that the master should have reported no profits	693
The damages will be trebled where the sum awarded by the verdict is inadequate to recompense an inventor for a long and expensive litigation, but not in the case of a mere assignee of the patent who has purchased on speculation	772

The question whether a bill of exchange drawn upon a London firm, and payable in Paris, is to be governed in respect to the medium of payment by the French law, held to be a question for the jury	927

A payment of internal revenue taxes, under protest, is not a voluntary payment, where both the collector and the party paying understand at the time that payment must be made, or the law will be enforced 1139

PILOTS.

See, also, "Salvage."

A licensed pilot, who runs his vessel on a shoal in fair weather and open daylight, is liable for resulting damages, and cannot set up the failure of the vessel to have a hawser, with which she might have been warped off without injury 417

The tender of services by a Hell Gate pilot as far east as Block Island is not legal, and a refusal and subsequent settlement with him will not prevent a pilot, who tendered his services off Oak Neck, from recovering half pilotage, where they were refused 319

PLEADING AT LAW.

In trover by husband and wife for a conversion of the wife's goods before marriage, the declaration must conclude ad damna ipsorum 1059

On demurrer to a rejoinder, a defect in the plea will not be held to have been cured by the reply 149

A plea of the statute of limitations, filed after the plea day, without leave of court, will be stricken out on motion 842

A general plea of nonassumpsit to several counts waives the objection that no account was exhibited with the declaration, as alleged therein 1057

PLEADING EST ADMIRALTY.

New facts must be presented by an amendment to the libel or answer, and not by way of replication and rejoinder 432

An amendment of the libel, as to the amount of damages claimed in a collision case, allowed, to remove a formal difficulty to the way of a just award	164
The giving of assistance in arresting the goods, and subsequently obtaining the same on stipulation, is a waiver of the objection that the libel was filed too soon	227
A plea to the merits waives any irregularity existing on account of filing the libel at a time when the vessel is not within the district	217
Proofs of facts not put in contestation by the pleadings, and allegations of facts not established by proofs, will both be rejected	432
The rule in equity requiring two witnesses, or one witness and strong corroborative circumstances, to overcome the denial in the answer, does not obtain in admiralty	1292

A court of equity will interfere in favor of the grantee in a deed to aid the defective execution of a valid power where there is no opposing countervailing equity	1018
PRACTICE AT LAW.
The court will not compel plaintiff to produce a charter party of which defendant has counterpart	292
Where the clerk omits to enter an appearance, and the cause is discontinued, it may be reinstated at the next term	1266
PRACTICE IN ADMIRALTY.
A rule of practice established by virtue of an act of congress has the force of a statute	853
Where several persons have causes of action of a like nature, involving one or more questions common to all against a vessel, all may join in one libel	266
No one can intervene and defend in a suit in rem unless it appear by the answer and claim that he has a lien of proprietary interest in the thing seized	102

Where, on a libel for wages, no one appears for the vessel, the amount claimed must be legally ascertained before the vessel will be sold	326
A person who declined to appear as claimant in suits to enforce maritime liens has no standing in court to claim a distribution of the proceeds of sale on a decree therein	747
When a plea which sets up no matter of defense is overruled, it is in the discretion of the court to allow an answer to be filed	909
Upon a motion to vacate an order pro confesso, and for leave to answer, respondent must satisfactorily account for his laches, and exhibit by answer or affidavit a meritorious defense	853
Sufficiency of excuse in the case of a foreign respondent and of affidavit of defense	853
Where it appears on the hearing in court that the main question is one as to an account, the court may properly refer the case to a commissioner	1190
A vessel discharged on stipulation for value or payment of the amount claimed can not be again seized for the same cause of action, even by consent of the parties	1075
Where, in the case of an appeal in admiralty transferred to another circuit a commissioner in the former circuit certifies to the giving of a stipulation by respondents with sureties, but such stipulation is not filed in court, a summary judgment cannot be entered against the sureties on the affirmance of the decree	573
It is no impeachment of a decree of sale of a vessel that the claim on which the libel was brought was purchased pending the suit	939
A decree against a vessel will not be opened, and the sale under it set aside, where the ship-owners, with full notice of the proceedings, did	939

not make application until after they were all perfected

PRACTICE EST EQUITY.

The bill will not be dismissed for want of prosecution for the failure of plaintiff to take testimony within the three months after issue formed, as allowed by rule 90 491

Respondent, who may be in possession or control of books referred to generally in the answer, may be ordered to produce them before a master or in court 53

Such order will not be denied on presentation of an affidavit denying possession, but such affidavit may be sufficient before the master 53

A subpoena duces tecum will be given for any witness to bring in the books who is supposed to have them 53

The rule in Virginia that a decree taken by default in consequence of the neglect of counsel for defendant will not be opened on motion for a rehearing is observed in the federal circuit court in the state 834

PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.

See, also, "Factors and Brokers."

An arrangement by a broker with a correspondent in another place to execute his orders, where the account was kept only with such correspondent, but the purchaser or seller was known in each transaction, held to make such correspondent an agent of the broker 646

The principal must suffer the consequences of the neglect of his agent to disclose the special nature of the contract, under which he is acting, to those with whom he deals 646

An agent to whom a vessel is delivered by the builders, without notice of his agency, does not acquire a good title as against his principal 883

	Page
Where an agent, employed to procure a vessel to be built in his own name, and to transfer the title to his employer, fraudulently transfers the title to a stranger, with notice, the transaction creates a trust cognizable in equity	888

PRIZE.

Jurisdiction.

The confiscations provided for by Act July 3, 1861, 8 6, and Act Aug. 6, 1861, can be carried into effect by the prize courts of the United States, as respects property captured at sea	462
--	-----

Grounds of condemnation.

Residence in an insurrectionary state determines the character of the property of the person	248
--	-----

The character of a ship is determined by the residence of her owners, and not by the flag she carries	389
---	-----

A person who puts himself in itinere to return to his native country is deemed to have assumed his native character	180
---	-----

The prize courts look to the legal interest in the vessel, and will not recognize neutral equitable interests	389
---	-----

Belligerent captors are discharged of liens or equities of neutral creditors resting upon the effects of an enemy seized at sea. Act July 13, 1861, and Act March 3, 1863, are inapplicable thereto	248
---	-----

Cotton picked up at sea by a United States cruiser held properly proceeded against as prize where the circumstances showed that it had recently been abandoned either by an enemy or a neutral engaged in breaking the blockade	1100
--	------

A naturalized citizen cannot lawfully bring away his property from an enemy country after knowledge of the war, without the license of the government	180
---	-----

	Page
Persons who are not citizens or residents of the enemy's country are entitled to a reasonable time to withdraw from their business connections therein, and convert their property into money, and carry it away, after the breaking out of hostilities.	389, 471
Property belonging to a neutral who is domiciled and carrying on trade at an enemy port is enemy property	462
A shipment made in an enemy's vessel from an enemy's country is presumed to belong to enemies, unless a distinct neutral character be impressed upon it	389
Cargo purchased with the proceeds of an outward cargo held to be the property of the consignees from the time it was laden on board and bills of lading executed there for	248
Where a shipment is made to partners, they will be held by the court to take in equal moieties, unless upon the original papers a different proportion appears	389
The property of a neutral engaged in the ordinary or extraordinary commerce of an enemy's country upon the same footing as native resident subjects, when employed in such trade, is subject to confiscation	389
The separate property of a neutral partner in a house of trade established in an enemy's country is not subject to confiscation; otherwise, as to property of the firm	389
A shipment made by such house to the partner domiciled in a neutral country is only liable as prize, where made on joint account	389
A shipment made by a person domiciled in the enemy's country to a house established in a neutral country, in which he is a partner, if	389

made upon their joint account and risk, is not liable to condemnation
Where a partner in a neutral house is domiciled in the enemy's country, and engaged in its general commerce, for the benefit of his neutral house, his property is liable as prize	389
A sale of property during hostilities in an enemy port, by a person domiciled and trading there, to a neutral, will not prevent the property being subject to capture as prize	462
Under the treaties of 1794, 1814, and 1815, a British merchant, residing in a port of a seceding state during the war, has no immunity from the general principles of public law, applicable to resident neutral merchants	462
The fact that a vessel carries clearance papers issued by the enemy does not of it self constitute justifiable cause for her condemnation	462
The vessel of a loyal citizen employed in trade with the enemy or in favor of an insurrection is subject to capture and condemnation	1167
To constitute a blockade of a port, an adequate force must be stationed to render the entrance or departure of vessels into or from the port dangerous	462
A neutral vessel which endeavors, by false appearances, to cover the property of a belligerent from the lawful seizure of the enemy, is herself liable to seizure	768
Procedure.
A libel in a prize case need contain no further averment than that the property seized is prize of war	248
A nominal agent cannot interpose claims for his principal who is within the jurisdiction of the court	180

	Page
The claim must be made by the owner if within the jurisdiction	243
The claimant must make his claim and affidavit without the assistance of the ship's papers	389
An averment that claimants were citizens of the United held a suppression of the fact that they were resident traders in the enemy's country	248
On further proof, the affidavits of the captors are admissible evidence without a release	243
Further proof is never allowed to a party who is guilty of fraud or of illegal conduct	243
The omission of the captors of a vessel to bring in the captured crew will not inure to defeat a capture by a government vessel	1167
In the absence of legal proof of actual capture in the case of enemy property, a decree of condemnation was deferred to await its production, or an excuse therefor	431
An obstinate suppression of the ship's papers, etc., coupled with a voyage from an enemy country, is sufficient cause of condemnation	180
Intentional misrepresentation of the character and destination of the voyage of the captured vessel is sufficient cause of condemnation of vessel and cargo	38
Cargo condemned on further proof for a violation of blockade by the vessel	432
Vessel and cargo condemned for an attempt to violate the blockade on papers false as to her destination	797
Vessel and cargo condemned as enemy property	430
Vessel and cargo condemned for an attempt to violate the blockade	160
Vessel and cargo condemned as enemy property, the claimants being residents of a seceding state	248
Vessel and cargo released, and restored to claimants	461

Where a claim is rejected, the claimant is liable to pay all expenses which have accrued in consequence of his claim	243
Prisoners and persons brought in with the prize for examination do not pass into the custody of the court, but their custody continues to be military in its character, and the duty of providing for their support devolves upon the government	280
The marshal is entitled to commissions on prize property removed from his district by consent of the parties to another district, and there sold	402
Fees allowed in prize causes	243
The charges of appraising and bonding prize property must be borne by the party who applies to have it bonded	251
Such appraiser is entitled to no allowance beyond the per diem allowance provided by statute or the standing rules of the court for that description of services	251
Prize officers.
Of the appointment, duties, authority, and rights of prize agents	182
Sale and distribution, of proceeds.
A vessel 12 miles distant, and unable to hear the guns of the capturing vessel, is not entitled to share in the prize	167
A vessel within signal distance, which was not in a situation to render any assistance, is not entitled to share in the distribution of a prize	1045
A commander of a privateer, authorized to award certain reserved shares among the most deserving in the cruise, cannot award a share to himself	182
Until a final adjustment of all claims arising from the capture, the prize court will entertain	182

a supplemental suit for the distribution of prize proceeds
Where the proceeds have been paid to prize agents, the proper jurisdiction is the district court. Where they remain in the circuit court application may be originally made there	182
Wrongful capture.
An officer of a public armed vessel of the United States who makes seizure of a neutral vessel on the high seas is liable for all consequential damages, unless he show probable cause for the seizure	1181
PUBLIC LANDS.
See, also, "Grants."
The lands granted to the state of Wisconsin by Act June 3, 1856, to aid in the building of railroads, did not ipso facto revert to the United States by a failure to build the road within the prescribed period	749
The state has power to protect such lands from trespass, and may maintain replevin or trover for logs cut thereon by trespassers	749
Under Act July 1, 1862, granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri river to the Pacific Ocean, there was a present grant, which attached to the particular sections upon the definite location of the road	384
Lands claimed at the time of such location, under alleged Mexican or Spanish grants, which were in fact fraudulent and void, and were afterwards so judicially declared, passed by such grant	384
A grant of alternate sections of land with in certain limits to aid in the construction of a railroad (Act July 25, 1866) held to attach on the filing of tie plat of survey of the line with	108

the secretary of the interior and the withdrawal of the land from sale, etc., but not as to any land lying outside of the limit to make up a deficiency, until such deficiency had been ascertained
Intermediate the date of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo and the admission of California into the Union, the title to property below low-water mark in the Bay of San Francisco was in the United States, and a deed thereof unauthorized by congress is a mere nullity	*903
A title made in the name of a deceased person, under the act of 1836, inures to the benefit of his heirs	655
Rights of pre-emption cannot be acquired to lands while the Indian title to occupancy still remains	40
The provision of the homestead act that no lands acquired thereunder shall, in any event, become liable to any debt contracted prior to the issuing of the patent there for, is valid and binding on the states	1133
A patent to a married settler under the Oregon donation act, and to his wife, by name, cannot be contradicted in an action at law by showing that the true wife of such settler was another person, by a different name	1171
If the call in an entry be for land to lie on a creek, the survey must be made so as to give an equal quantity of land on each side of it	1259
If the calls in an entry be indefinite, the survey must be made in an oblong or a square	1259
QUIETING TITLE.
Equity has jurisdiction to quiet the title at the suit of an owner of real estate in possession alleging a tax title held by defend ant, who refuses to prosecute it	1173

	Page
A bill to quiet title will not lie between parties claiming title through the same person who is in possession, holding adversely to both, until the title is determined by a suit at law	1260
A bill of peace will not lie unless complainant is or has been in possession, or there is a defect in some deed asked to be given up	1164
To maintain a bill of peace by a person having a present right of possession, he must have actual possession, which must be disturbed, and his right must have been previously determined at law	1260

QUI TAM AND PENAL ACTIONS.

The failure of the declaration on a penal statute to conclude against the form of the statute is a fatal omission on error	938
Such declaration need not specify the uses to which the forfeiture inures, and an allegation in that respect may be stricken out as surplusage	938
Where several acts are mentioned in the declaration, an allegation that "by force of said act," without designating the particular act, is not fatal on error	938

RAILROAD COMPANIES.

See, also, "Carriers"; "Corporations"; "Eminent Domain": "Mandamus."
"Net earnings" defined	167
The holder of preferred stock, entitling him to dividends out of the "net earnings, * * * after payment of mortgage interest," is not entitled to dividends before payment of interest on bonds given for money subsequently borrowed, or of rent due on subsequent leases of connecting lines	167
Where the payment of rent by a lessee company is guaranteed by other companies, holding large blocks of its bonds, the court will require it	190

to pay such rent in advance of the interest on the bonds owned by the guarantors, and will restrain them from disposing of such bonds
A mortgage covering all after-acquired property will include rolling stock, though it is personal property, under the state constitution, as against creditors who did not secure a lien before the rolling stock was acquired	820
The fact that notice of the election, at which the authority to issue the railroad aid bonds was given, was issued by the wrong officer, will not invalidate the bonds in the hands of a bona fide holder, where the county has paid interest thereon for nine years	665
Bonds of a county in Missouri not within the limits of the original charter of the company held void in the hands of a bona fide holder, for want of legislative authority to issue them	1283

REAL PROPERTY.

See, also, "Adverse Possession"; "Deed"; "Ejectment"; "Grant"; "Public Lands."

Authority conferred upon three commissioners in proceedings to divest title to land cannot be exercised by two, where the third had no opportunity to take part therein

In an action for mesne profits, defendant is entitled to an offset of the amount expended for necessary repairs and legal taxes

RECEIVERS.

See, also, "Contempt."

A receiver will not be appointed of property which is in the possession of a person not a party to the suit

REMOVAL OF CAUSES.

See, also, "Courts."

Right of removal.

	Page
The requisite jurisdictional citizenship must exist as to each individual plaintiff in an action against an alien, to authorize a removal under Act March 3. 1875, § 2	589
Where, in a suit by a nonresident plaintiff against a citizen of a state where the suit is brought and a citizen of another state, the latter voluntarily appears, plaintiff may obtain a removal of the cause as to all of the defendants. (Act March 2, 1867.)	345
A suit by railroad bondholders under a deed of trust which is paramount to the rights of stockholders may be removed to the federal court, notwithstanding the existence of a prior suit in the state court by the stockholders, and possession of the road taken therein	820
Time for removal.
The term at which a cause could be first tried is the term at which the issues are first made up, where the party applying for a removal has not been guilty of negligence	820
Proceedings to obtain.
Where under the state statutes, its courts can act only in term, a cause referred to a referee for trial in vacation can not be removed by the filing of a petition, affidavit, and bond in vacation	846
After the filing of the petition and bond required by law, the jurisdiction of the state court over a removable action is at an end	960
A certiorari is not necessary where the record of the state court is already before the federal court	820
Sufficiency of application for a writ of certiorari to remove a case under Act March 2, 1833	229
Effect of removal: Subsequent proceedings

	Page
Where it appears that the cause does not really and substantially involve a dispute or controversy properly within the jurisdiction of the federal court, the cause must be dismissed or remanded	114
Where it appears that the nonresident party upon whose petition the cause was removed, has parted with his interest, and the substantial controversy is between citizens of the same state, the cause will be remanded	114
After a foreign corporation, sued in the state court, has removed the case to the federal court, it cannot object to the jurisdiction of the state court, or take exception to the process by which it was brought in	608
The right to costs after removal is determined by the state statutes, and not by Rev. St. § 968; and plaintiff's right to costs does not necessarily depend upon the amount of recovery	879
Where the sum in dispute between plaintiff and defendant in an attachment case is within the jurisdiction of the federal circuit court, the fact that the claims of other creditors are less than $500 will not affect such jurisdiction	960
A foreign corporation cannot object to the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that it was not an inhabitant of or found within the district, after it has removed the cause from the state court to the federal court, under Act 1789. §12	608
Effect of repeal of Act June 30. 1864, § 50. by Act July 13. 1860. § 68. on an action against a collector of internal revenue theretofore removed to the federal court	273
REPLEVIN.
To maintain replevin for logs cut upon state lands and indistinguishably mingled with logs	749

cut upon other lands, it is not necessary that the state identify each log Defendant who has pleaded property in himself will be permitted to amend by pleading property in a stranger, on payment of costs 1059

RIGHT, WRIT OF.

In a writ of right, the proof must strictly conform to the allegation; and an allegation by several demandants as equally interested is not supported by proof of different estates 850

1373

RULES OF COURT.

The rules established by the supreme court are rules of practice, not of decision 1048

A rule established by the supreme court in pursuance of law becomes a part of the law itself 1131

SALE

See, also, "Deceit"; "Vendor and Purchaser."

A valid sale may be made of personal property which is out of possession of the party 432

Where a chain cable is loaned a vessel until another can be manufactured for her, and she fails to return it as agreed, and sails with both cables, she is liable for the price of both 484

A contract for the conditional delivery of goods to a debtor gives his creditors no title to them until the account for the same is paid 590

A shipment will remain on the account and risk of the shipper, unless there be an express or implied authority to change the proprietary interest, and put the shipment at the risk of the consignees 403

The doctrine as to stoppage in transitu does not apply where the actual or constructive possession remains in the shipper or his exclusive agents 389

	Page
A shipment made by a merchant, who purchased goods for another consigned to his own agent, with the right to hold them until arrangements are made with the correspondent, does not divest the title or possession of the shipper	389
The right of stoppage in transitu ceases on a sale by the purchaser to a third person	706
SALVAGE.
Jurisdiction.
The district court has jurisdiction over a case of salvage on the Ohio river	1096
Right to salvage compensation.
Persons whose exertions did not benefit the property cannot claim compensation as salvors, though for bona fida efforts, which were unsuccessful, they should be allowed something in the nature of a quantum meruit	159
A vessel condemned in damages for a collision will not be allowed salvage for rescuing the other vessel from sinking by towing her to a place of safety	298
Salvage will be awarded where property is exposed to a chance which might destroy it, and is saved at some personal risk	1096
The fact that the owner is in pursuit, unknown to the salvor, does not deprive him of his claim	1096
Where a vessel has encountered any danger or misfortune which may possibly expose her to destruction if services are not rendered, they are salvage services, though the danger is not imminent or absolute	425
Services rendered in raising sectional docks used for dry-docking vessels are not the subject of salvage compensation	281

Towing a steam vessel which has lost the use of her machinery by an accident, although she is sound in hull and masts, is a salvage service	425
A carrier held personally liable for salvage on property loaded on its cars while being transported by another across a river on flatboats	918
Barges adrift on the Ohio river are a proper subject of salvage	1096
Contracts for salvage services
Agreements entered into in situations of distress at sea are contrary to law, and will be set aside	750
Forfeiture or reduction of salvage.
Additional unnecessary labor will not reduce the compensation for services actually necessary	327
Salvors are liable for damage done to the sails of the vessel saved by being negligently left exposed to sparks from the salvor vessel	1076
Amount.
Salvage should be awarded with such liberality as to give proper encouragement to the rendition of salvage services	816
The value of the services to the property saved, and not the number of salvors, determines the amount	327
Where it appears in the case of a vessel saved from wreck that a sum may be deposited to secure salvage, a smaller proportion will be awarded than in the case of a judicial sale, where full-value is seldom obtained	99
Neither the fact that the salvor vessel was saved from exposure to storm by going into a port of distress with a disabled steamer under tow, nor the fact that she was injured in a subsequent storm by reason of the delay, can be considered in fixing compensation for salvage	426

$75 awarded for six hours' service for saving a water-logged and abandoned scow, worth, with cargo, £5,000	1076
$500 awarded on a net value of $37,500 to a tug for going to the rescue of a barge loaded with railroad cars, drifting in a field office	918
$900 allowed a vessel worth, with cargo $230,000, for towing a disabled steamer, worth, with cargo, $100,000, 63 miles to port, incurring a loss of three hours' time to the salvor, and saving the other four days	425
$1,200 allowed on a net value of $38,000, for pulling off a vessel aground in a dangerous position in the channel of Charles ton harbor	816
$9,000 allowed salvor vessel worth, with cargo. $434,000, for towing into Norfolk disabled steamer, worth, with cargo, $100,000	426
Forty-five per cent, allowed on a net value of $11,616 in the case of a vessel grounded on the Florida reef, where four days were spent in getting her off	797
One-half allowed on a gross value of $4,000 where a pilot boat went in search of a derelict schooner, and, after great labor, found and towed her to port	595
Remedies for recovery.
The master of a vessel in a dangerous situation, after summoning wreckers to his assistance, will not be heard to object to the payment of salvage, on the ground that such assistance is unnecessary	327
Apportionment.
Ordinarily, one-third of the entire salvage is given to the owners of the salvor vessel	1108
A distribution of the salvage among officers and men in proportion to wages held proper	1108

	Page
In a case of extraordinary merit, where a salvor failed to present his claim until after salvage was decreed and paid, he was allowed compensation out of the proceeds remaining in the marshal's hands, reserved for the owners	107
Right to property or proceeds.
The uninterrupted continuance for 30 years of a custom of a certain court in regard to rights to derelicts raises an inference of the legality thereof	42
In the Southern district of Florida, the residue of ii derelict, in the absence of any claimant, is delivered to the salvors after the lapse of a year and a day	42
As against the salvors, the United States are not entitled to the residue of a derelict	42
SEAMEN.
See, also, "Admiralty"; "Maritime Liens."
The contract of shipment.
There is no "difference" between master and crew, within the meaning of a stipulation providing for arbitration, where wages due were agreed upon and demanded, but payment of them was refused	449
A woman employed as cook on board a vessel is a mariner, and entitled to sue in admiralty for her wages	149
An agreement on a sealing voyage for shares of every article "procured by the crew" does not give a right to a share of freight earned by the transportation of merchandise	449
Under a contract for the run homeward from a foreign port at a stated sum, the seamen may leave the ship as soon as she anchors in the harbor of her home port	113
Stipulations in articles, in addition to those recognized by Act July 20. 1790. operating to	449

the disadvantage of the seamen, will not be enforced, unless it appear from evidence outside the articles that the seamen fully understood the stipulations, and received adequate consideration therefore
A stipulation that the seamen will prosecute their suits for wages in courts of common law only comes within such rule	449
Where the articles were for a voyage from San Francisco to Calcutta, and no wages were name'd, held , that evidence was admissible to show that the contract was for a voyage from San Francisco to Boston, via Calcutta, at an agreed rate of wages	1228
A seaman, rejoining his vessel after being left sick in a foreign port, is entitled to the wages originally contracted for though the master paid the consul three months' extra wages, under Act Feb. 28. 1803	1151
Where a seaman fails, by his own fault, to rejoin the ship at an intermediate port, at which she touched in the course of the voyage, the master is not bound to reinstate him upon the return of the vessel to such port in the course of her voyage	895
The master may disrate a seaman found to be disqualified for the particular duty for which he shipped, and make a reasonable deduction of wages therefore	1294
Dishonesty or intemperate habits are sufficient causes for degrading a steward, and putting him before the mast	1294
A mate who, during his watch, turns in and leaves the vessel without an officer in command, may be disrated	1095
Where the mate is discovered in his berth during his watch, while the ship is without an	1095 officer in command, the burden is upon him to show that he was not called

A mate wrongfully discharged abroad, and returning home before the mast, held should be allowed expenses and wages to the home port, without any deduction for wages earned before the mast	1228
Conduct of master or mate in respect to seamen.
The ship's carpenter ranks with an ordinary seaman, and is subject to the orders of the second mate	1266
General orders from one officer will not excuse the disobedience by the seaman of the specific orders of another inferior officer	1266
The court will discourage actions for damages on account of obsolete grievances	528
The master is liable in damages for flogging a seaman without a hearing, for disobeying orders, where the seaman acted in good faith	1266
A mate cannot justify an assault and battery by the orders of the master, not knowing them to be illegal	1266
An assault with a dangerous weapon can not be justified by showing that the weapon was casually in the hands of the master, and was used by him in a moment of excitement, under circumstances justifying punishment of the seamen	528
The conduct of both parties will be considered in estimating the amount of damages for assault and battery	528
In fixing the amount of damages in a case of assault and battery, the court will consider the situation of the parties, and the various aggravating and mitigating circumstances of the case	659

	Page
The court will consider the fact, in estimating damages for an assault and battery by the master, that the mate, in no way connected therewith, was made a party to the libel, to render him incompetent as a witness	503
Wages—Right to.
There are exceptions to the rule that, to entitle to wages, freight must be earned	476
A capture, unless followed by condemnation does not dissolve the contract for wages. It is suspended during prize proceedings, and upon a decree of restoration it revives	476
If, pending the voyage, there be an interdiction of commerce with the port of destination, by war or otherwise, and in consequence, the voyage is broken up, no wages are due	476
But the seamen are entitled to a reasonable compensation where they are subsequently retained by the master, to refit and preserve the ship	476
And, where they are subsequently discharged in, a foreign port, they are entitled to the two months' wages (Act Feb. 28. 1803, c. 62), and may recover the same in admiralty	476
A seaman discharged in a foreign port on his vessel's being condemned as unseaworthy is not entitled to the three months' extra wages where the injuries were received from perils of the sea during the voyage	15
The personal representatives of a sea man who died on the return voyage are entitled to his wages at least to the time of his death	830
—Remedies for recovery.
The vessel owners are not liable for the wages of a cook hired by the master on his exclusive credit	829

	Page
Seamen have a paramount lien upon the freight money of the voyage, which is to be administered by a court of admiralty by the service of its attachment upon the freight moneys in the hands of the parties wherever it is found	152
The seamen's lien for wages does not pass to a shipping agent by reason of advances made to the seamen at the home port	941
The assignee of a seaman's claim for wages cannot enforce the same in rem in admiralty	19
A claim for wages not set up until after the vessel has been sold on proceedings to enforce a lieu for supplies must be supported by clear evidence	933
—Deductions: Extinguishment, etc.
A surgeon who ships in time of war will not suffer a deduction of wages where peace takes place while at the outward port	1194
An agreement by a needy mariner in a foreign port to take one-third of the amount of wages due in full payment is a nudum pactum	553
Where a seaman puts the vessel in jeopardy by violating a notorious excise law by smuggling, he is subject to make amends by forfeiture or subtraction of wages	849
A mate cannot be charged with negligence in not keeping a proper account of goods taken on board, when he was ordered on other duty by the master during the loading of the vessel	652
A mate cannot be charged on the ground of negligence with the difference between the amount of goods landed and that shown on the invoice, unless such amounts are clearly shown	652

On a disagreement between equal owners as to the management of the vessel, a sale will be ordered on the petition of one owner	1081
The master.
The master cannot, without special authority, sell the vessel in the country where her owner lives, even in cases of extreme necessity	893
In a case of urgent necessity, the master may sell the vessel as well on a home shore as on a foreign shore, and whether the owner residence be near or at a distance	432
A sale by the master will be justified where an owner of reasonable prudence would have directed the sale, from the opinion that the vessel could not be delivered from the peril without the hazard of an expense disproportionate to her real value	432
That the master acted in good faith and in the exercise of his best discretion will not justify a sale by him, unless there appears to have been an urgent necessity to sell, for the preservation of the interests of all concerned	432
When necessary repairs can be made within a reasonable time, the master may hypothecate freight and cargo for that purpose, instead of transshipping	705
The lien of the master of a foreign ship, given equal rank with the liens of seamen and material men by the law of the flag, will not be enforced in our courts	1025
The shipowners are liable for the tort of a master in shipping a minor known to him to have run away from another vessel	1292

STATES.

A special fund for the payment of a claim having been applied to other uses by the state treasurer, a court of equity cannot restrain such officer from applying to general purposes other subsequently received funds, not specially dedicated by law, nor compel by mandamus that they be substituted in place of the special fund 1033

STATUTES.

See, also, "Constitutional Law."

When the priority of different events comes in question, an act will be considered as taking effect only from the actual time of its approval by the president 254

Where an act is capable of two interpretations, the court will adopt the one which will sustain it, rather than one which will render it void as unconstitutional 203

In the interpretation of statutes, words of common use are to be taken in their natural, plain, and ordinary signification 737

A statute conferring limited jurisdiction will be construed strictly as to the extent of jurisdiction, but liberally as to the mode of proceeding 66

Under an act appropriating moneys to a certain person as assignee of C., "or to whomsoever shall appear to the comptroller to be entitled to his share," held, that C, was not entitled to the moneys in his own right, and a suit could be maintained in the name of any one legally entitled thereto. 343

Though congress may pass retroactive statutes, providing they are not ex post facto, a statute will not be construed as retroactive, unless the 667

legislative intention is so expressly declared or appears by unavoidable implication
A subsequent statute inconsistent with or repugnant to a former statute repeals it by implication	672
A law in existence at the time labor was performed, giving a right to a lien therefore, and an action to enforce the same, is a part of the contract which is unaffected by its repeal	124
Under Const. Or. art. 4, § 22, a section of a statute cannot be amended by simply repealing a clause or subdivision of it	611
Parol evidence is not admissible to prove a foreign law. unless it appear that the party has been unable to obtain a certified copy	1093

SUNDAY.

The fact that a vessel was hauled into a dock on Sunday, which was an illegal act under the state law, will not prevent her recovering damages in admiralty, where she is injured on such day on the falling of the tide from defects in the bottom.	569, 576
--	-------------

TAXATION.

See, also, "Banks and Banking"; "Internal Revenue."
A constitutional provision abolishing all laws exempting property from taxation does not thereby impose any tax, and none can be collected which is not specially authorized by statute	548
Where a statute provides for a board of three tax commissioners, and that number is appointed, but only two acted or qualified, the proceedings of the board are void ab initio	667
A statute declaring that a majority of the board shall have full authority to transact business, and that no proceedings shall be declared invalid on account of the absence of one of	667

them, will not be construed to have a retroactive effect
The assessment and advertisement of property in a wrong name in the District of Columbia does not make the tax sale void. (Act May 26, 1824.)	1057
A tax sale will be set aside in equity where there was fraud and collusion between the officer making the sale and the purchaser.	672
TERRITORIES.
The territory of Nebraska, under the organic act, may provide for personal service upon nonresidents out of the district, or for constructive service by publication in suits relating to property in the district, notwithstanding section 11 of the judiciary act, requiring personal service in the district	232
TOWAGE.
See, also, "Collision."
A tug towing a coal heaver is the servant of the latter, and bound to obey its orders; and is not responsible, though, in point of fact, giving orders to her, for damages in the proper course of its employment	290
The master of the tow must follow the guidance of the tug; and when directed to follow in its wake he should have a look out forward to observe the course of the tug	897
A master, acting as pilot and wheelman in the wheelhouse of a tug, is not a competent lookout	897
Tug held not liable by loss of tow in severe storm, sunk by water getting into her hold through an insufficiently secured fore-castle hatch	759
The master's certificate as to the amount agreed to be paid for services will not be set aside unless it appear clearly and satisfactorily that	1077

the sum named is so unreasonable as to raise a suspicion of fraud

Equity will not interfere in behalf of the owner of a trade-mark acquired by advertising the subject of it under false representations as to its origin and qualities 908

TREATIES.

Our courts cannot question the validity of the commission of a French privateer, whose prize is brought into our courts under article 17 of the treaty with France 225

TRIAL.

See, also, "Appeal"; "Continuance"; "Evidence"; "Judgment"; "New Trial"; "Practice"; "Witness."

A cause is not regularly for trial unless it has been put at issue at a preceding term 720

The federal circuit court is not bound to notice in its charge any matters to which its attention is not called, and in regard to which instructions are not requested 905

A verdict, though informal, is good if the substance of the issue has been found 66

In a suit in the name of the United States of America, a verdict finding in favor of the United States, without the addition "of America," is sufficient 938

TROVER AND CONVERSION.

The unauthorized transfer of plaintiffs property by defendant, though without wrongful intent, and before demand, is still a conversion 549

Page

In an action of trover and conversion for articles purchased from a person who sold them without authority, the measure of damages is the real value of the property 893

TRUSTS.

See, also, "Charities"; "Executors and Administrators"; "Guardian and "Ward"; "Wills."

A person who assumes to act as agent in redeeming lands sold for taxes will be considered as acting in that capacity in subsequent dealings with the title 655

A cestui que trust may maintain a suit to enjoin the trustee from collecting, appropriating, or disposing of the trust property 212

UNITED STATES.

All powers of the United States government arise from the grant expressed in their written constitution. None of the prerogatives of the English crown devolved by succession upon them 42

A defendant sued by the United States is not entitled to a finding in any form of a sum due him by the United States in excess of the claim for which he was sued 654

USURY.

The owner of property borrowed money to pay off an incumbrance, and deeded the same to the lender, who gave back a lease at a greater rental than legal interest, with the privilege of purchasing during the term for the amount loaned. Held not a usurious transaction 1289
