

TURBETT v. DUNLEVY.

District Court, E. D. Pennsylvania.

1848.

CARRIERS—PASSENGERS—AUTHORITY OF
MASTER OF VESSEL—PERSONAL INDIGNITIES.

The master of a vessel has a general authority over the passengers, as well as the crew; and if a passenger so demean himself as to endanger the safety or convenience of others on board, the master may control him; but it is a marine trespass for the master to shave the head of a stowaway on board his vessel, for the mere purpose of putting a mark upon him.

{See Krauskopp v. Ames, Case No. 7,931.}

{Decided by KANE, District Judge. Nowhere reported; opinion not now accessible. The above statement was taken from 1 Brightly, Dig. 802.}

This volume of American Law was transcribed for use on the Internet

through a contribution from Google. 