14 And Andrew Bridges is representing Defendant

16 THE COURT: Now, good morning to all of you.

17 VOICES: Good morning, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: We are here for the completion of 19 the Court's effort to resolve the issues presented by 20 the pending motion.

21 I was pleased to read your status report and 22 determine that many of the issues had been resolved.
23 The Court, of course, this Court, entered an order
24 memorializing that resolution.

1 really own these works," but the law doesn't permit
2 anybody to come in and challenge an assignment between 3 us and a third party. That's just not how it works.

5 presumption of our ownership of copyright, and the 6 provision of the Copyright Act, Section 204, that 7 governs the requirement of written assignments, as far 8 as I know, every court to have interpreted that, has 9 said that the people who can challenge the validity of 10 an assignment are the people who claim to be authors, 11 who claim that they did not assign their rights to the 12 person who owns the copyright registration.

13 So, this whole endeavor is a side show.
14 We've been willing to cooperate, to the extent that 15 it's reasonable, but we don't think there's any reason
16 to do anything further with respect to these requests.

17 THE COURT: Very well. Thank you very much,
18 Mr. Rehn.

19 Mr. Bridges, may I ask you to respond only as 20 to NFPA, please, --

21 MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: -- bearing in mind that at this
23 time, unless I am persuaded otherwise during the course 24 your reply, it appears that the appropriate action is 25 to deny the request without prejudice as to NFPA, since
