

There's parts of the law that are owned by private corporations? Really? Well, if that's ok with you, then let's just go ahead and privatize the court system, I mean the prisons are privatized so we're already half way there. In fact why do we need the government at all, Wal-Mart seems to be really efficient at what they do, let's have them run things.

Hey, tell me, are there any of your government types that aren't inherently corrupt?