Try NSSN (www.nssn.org), . It contains meta-data about standards, not actual documents.

The other place is NIST's site: www.standards.gov which has other databases, but not the actual standards.

Scott,

I have a quick question for you. There is a database of standards out there—sort of like a Lexis for standards, as I understand it. Do you happen to recall the name of it? I'm blanking.

Thanks,
