Thank you, Elizabeth.

The questions look great! My comments and suggestions are attached in redline. The changes I made are for the most part just about word choice and my own personal preference for not using acronyms unless they're readily and ubiquitously understood. In reviewing this, I was trying to think about how I would naturally ask the question and how it would be easiest for me to refer to the written questions during the course of the event.

There are only a couple of substantive tweaks and questions (the latter in comment bubbles). If I made any changes that cause problems, or if my comments suggest any misunderstanding of the questions, please just let me know.

Best,
Emily
