Emily,

It was good to meet you this morning and discuss the issues facing SDOs and also the agencies. If you have any other questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

I have included below two examples of standards available on our web site that have the different versions available.

J573 – Signal and Marking Light Sources (First issued in 1961, latest revision is 2011) All eleven versions of this standards are available at the SAE web site by going to the following link - http://standards.sae.org/j573_201106

J387 – Terminology – Motor Vehicle Lighting (First issued in 1969, last revised in 2007) Six versions of this standard are available for download by following this link - http://standards.sae.org/j387_200701

Good luck with completing your report. Stay cool this weekend.

Tim
