

3. For projects in jurisdictions with housing elements that are not in procedural or substantive compliance with state law, respond to the following question:

- a. If the jurisdiction in which the proposed development is located has complied with all procedures required by Article 10.6, commencing with section 65580, of Chapter 3, Division 1 of Title 7 of the Government Code for the department's review of a draft housing element, and if that jurisdiction has adopted the housing element and submitted it to the department, that jurisdiction will be deemed to be in procedural compliance.
- b. If the department has determined in writing that the adopted housing element for the jurisdiction in which the proposed development is located is in compliance with Article 10.6, commencing with section 65580, of Chapter 3, Division 1 of Title 7 of the Government Code, that jurisdiction will be deemed to be in substantive compliance.

Does the jurisdiction in which the project is located have a similar plan or policy formally considered by the local city council or board of supervisors? Yes No

If yes, attach a copy of the plan, or policy.
